High School
Volume XXIV*

The Classic Tradition

Classic — a subtle, but true, word used to describe our school. Classic was defined by Webster as “traditional and enduring.” We took part in many things which were typical examples of our school. Each year we looked forward to the traditional huge homecoming parade and pep rally as well as the celebration of Freshmen Friday and mock homecoming. Closed proms, class yells, and annual candy sales were always a part of the school.

The pleasant, quiet, laid back atmosphere we created endured throughout the years as well as the conservative dress of most students. The seniors especially looked forward to the elections of superlatives, mascots, class flower, song, color and motto.

Many schools abandoned our traditions and ideas years ago. That did not change our minds. We saw their value in our school, for they were classics.

“Watch out sophomores and freshmen. The juniors and seniors are out for revenge!” Unfortunately, the muscle power of Renee Ashworth, Cindy Evans, and Kristy Coggins could not help the upperclassmen pull off a victory in the annual powerpuff football game. It was held Oct. 18 at 1:00 pm in the stadium.

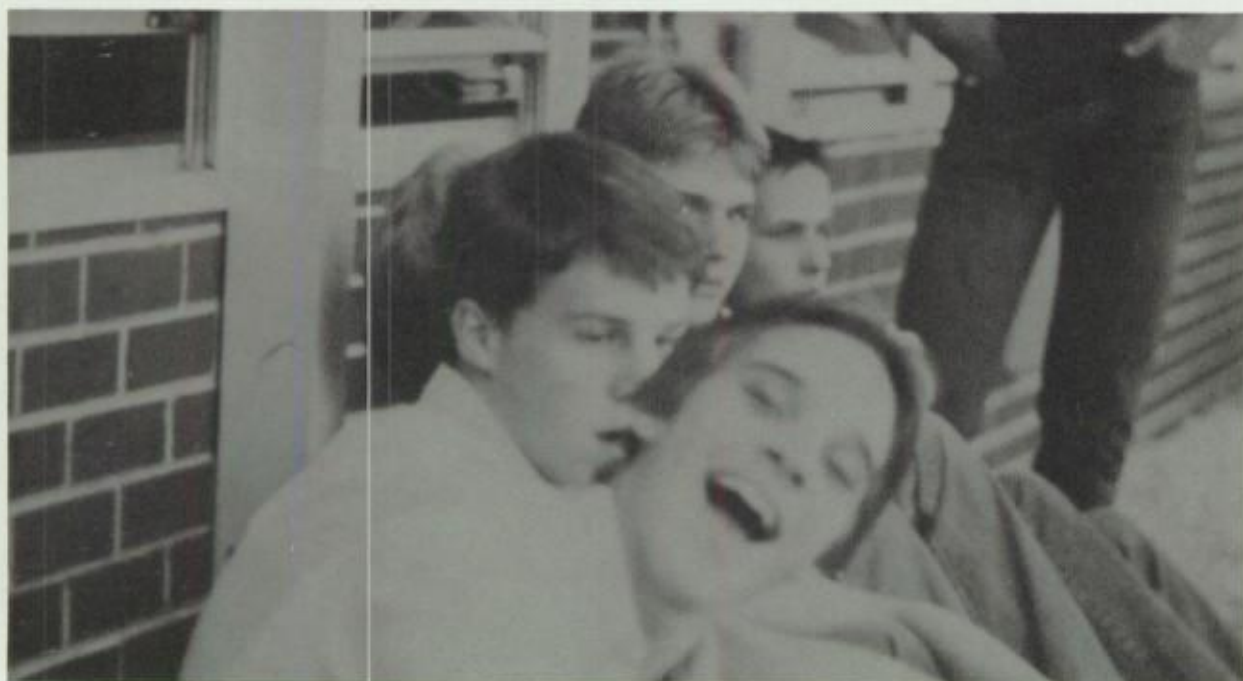

Chad Elberson listens intently to Mr. Myers during Bus Driver's Club on 3rd Thursday.

Cross country fans cheer and scream as the team members cross the finish line. The Eagles finished second at their only home meet.

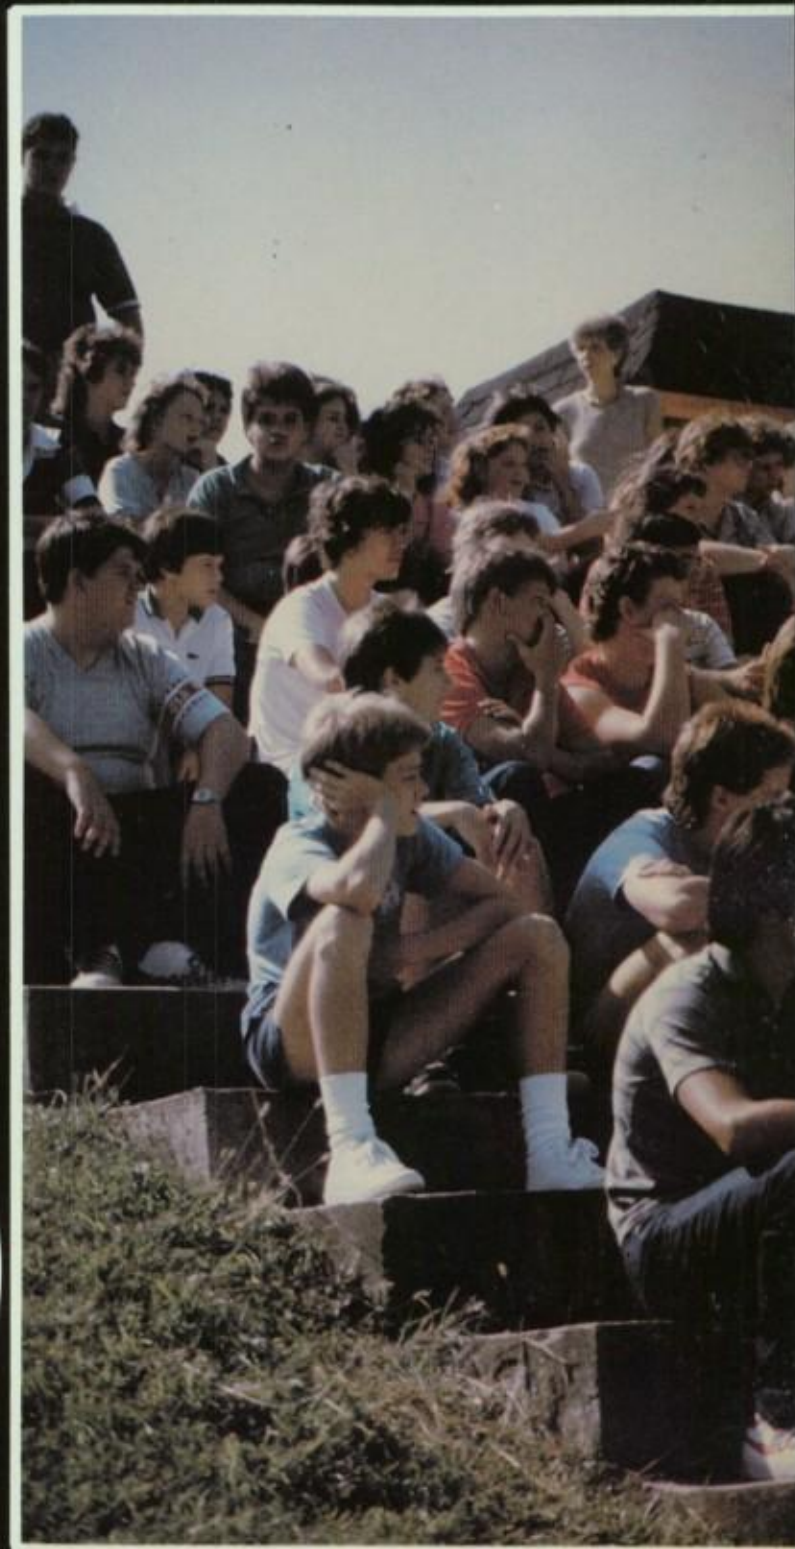

The crowds cheer with all their might, as the Eagles race down the field toward victory during the East/Jordan Matthews game.

Todd Pennington and his friends sit happily on the Eagle court during break as they wait on the next bell to ring.

PASTIMES

Four, three, two, one, TGIF! Students had finally made it through a long week of homework, studying, and tests. Provided one was not confined to a long night working, he or she probably had special plans for the night.

A few preferred a quiet night at home playing solitaire or, heaven forbid, doing homework, while everyone else was on exciting dates or cruising the town in spotless cars. Some preferred a not so clean type of activity, mud slinging. The rain brought more than ducks out!

There were Eagles who thought they were eagles or some other type of tree-dwelling creature. They built platforms in trees, put on camouflage clothes and make-up, and perched themselves on these platforms from dawn to dusk. They looked like silly green and brown creatures; but beware, danger waited all passing deer.

Yvonne Cranford and Sandra Cagle shop for "just the right card" at Eckerd's to give to that special person. They find that shopping an interesting and fun way to spend time together.

Twila Hunt and Karen Williams wait in line patiently to get popcorn and drinks before the movie begins at Southgate Theater.

Lane Norris and Mickey Hulon grab a bite to eat at McDonald's where they discuss plans for the evening.

Todd Pennington and Charles Kennedy think getting down right dirty on Green Hill is a great way to spend the afternoon. Todd finds that his three-wheeler is not the only thing that can not go through the mud.

HOT, HAZY DAYS

Summer was definitely a time to relax and enjoy the free time. Mothers were not quoted as yelling, "For the last time, get out of bed!"

Graduates swarmed into ready-packed cars, and rising seniors begged their bosses for time off to head for the beach. As shoes and jeans changed into tiny bathing suits and flip-flops, the Eagle family moved down to the coast for the summer.

Although many students had asked for time off, some were left behind to keep the wheels grinding. To and from the beach on the weekends became a familiar sight of the traveling carloads of luggage and sweating bodies.

Many of the families took part in the activities by supplying transportation to the beaches, mountains, or lakes.

There were, however, those lucky few who were able to either lie around the pool or catch up on all the favorite soaps.

Even though summer was supposed to be a vacation, there were those dedicated ones who attended camps or workshops to prepare for the coming school year. The football team attended camp at East as did the flag and rifle corps. The cheerleaders traveled to the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and the Claw staff attended the Colonial Journalism Workshop in Williamsburg, Virginia.

Wyndi Walser takes a break from cheerleading camp to call home and say "hello" to her mother.

While shopping at the mall during summer vacation, Jennifer Batson hunts for some new clothing.

At Aqua Gardens, Cheryl Small watches the swimmers closely as she lifeguards.

During the summer while on the sands of Myrtle Beach, Dana Mason and Angie Stanley search for lifeguards.

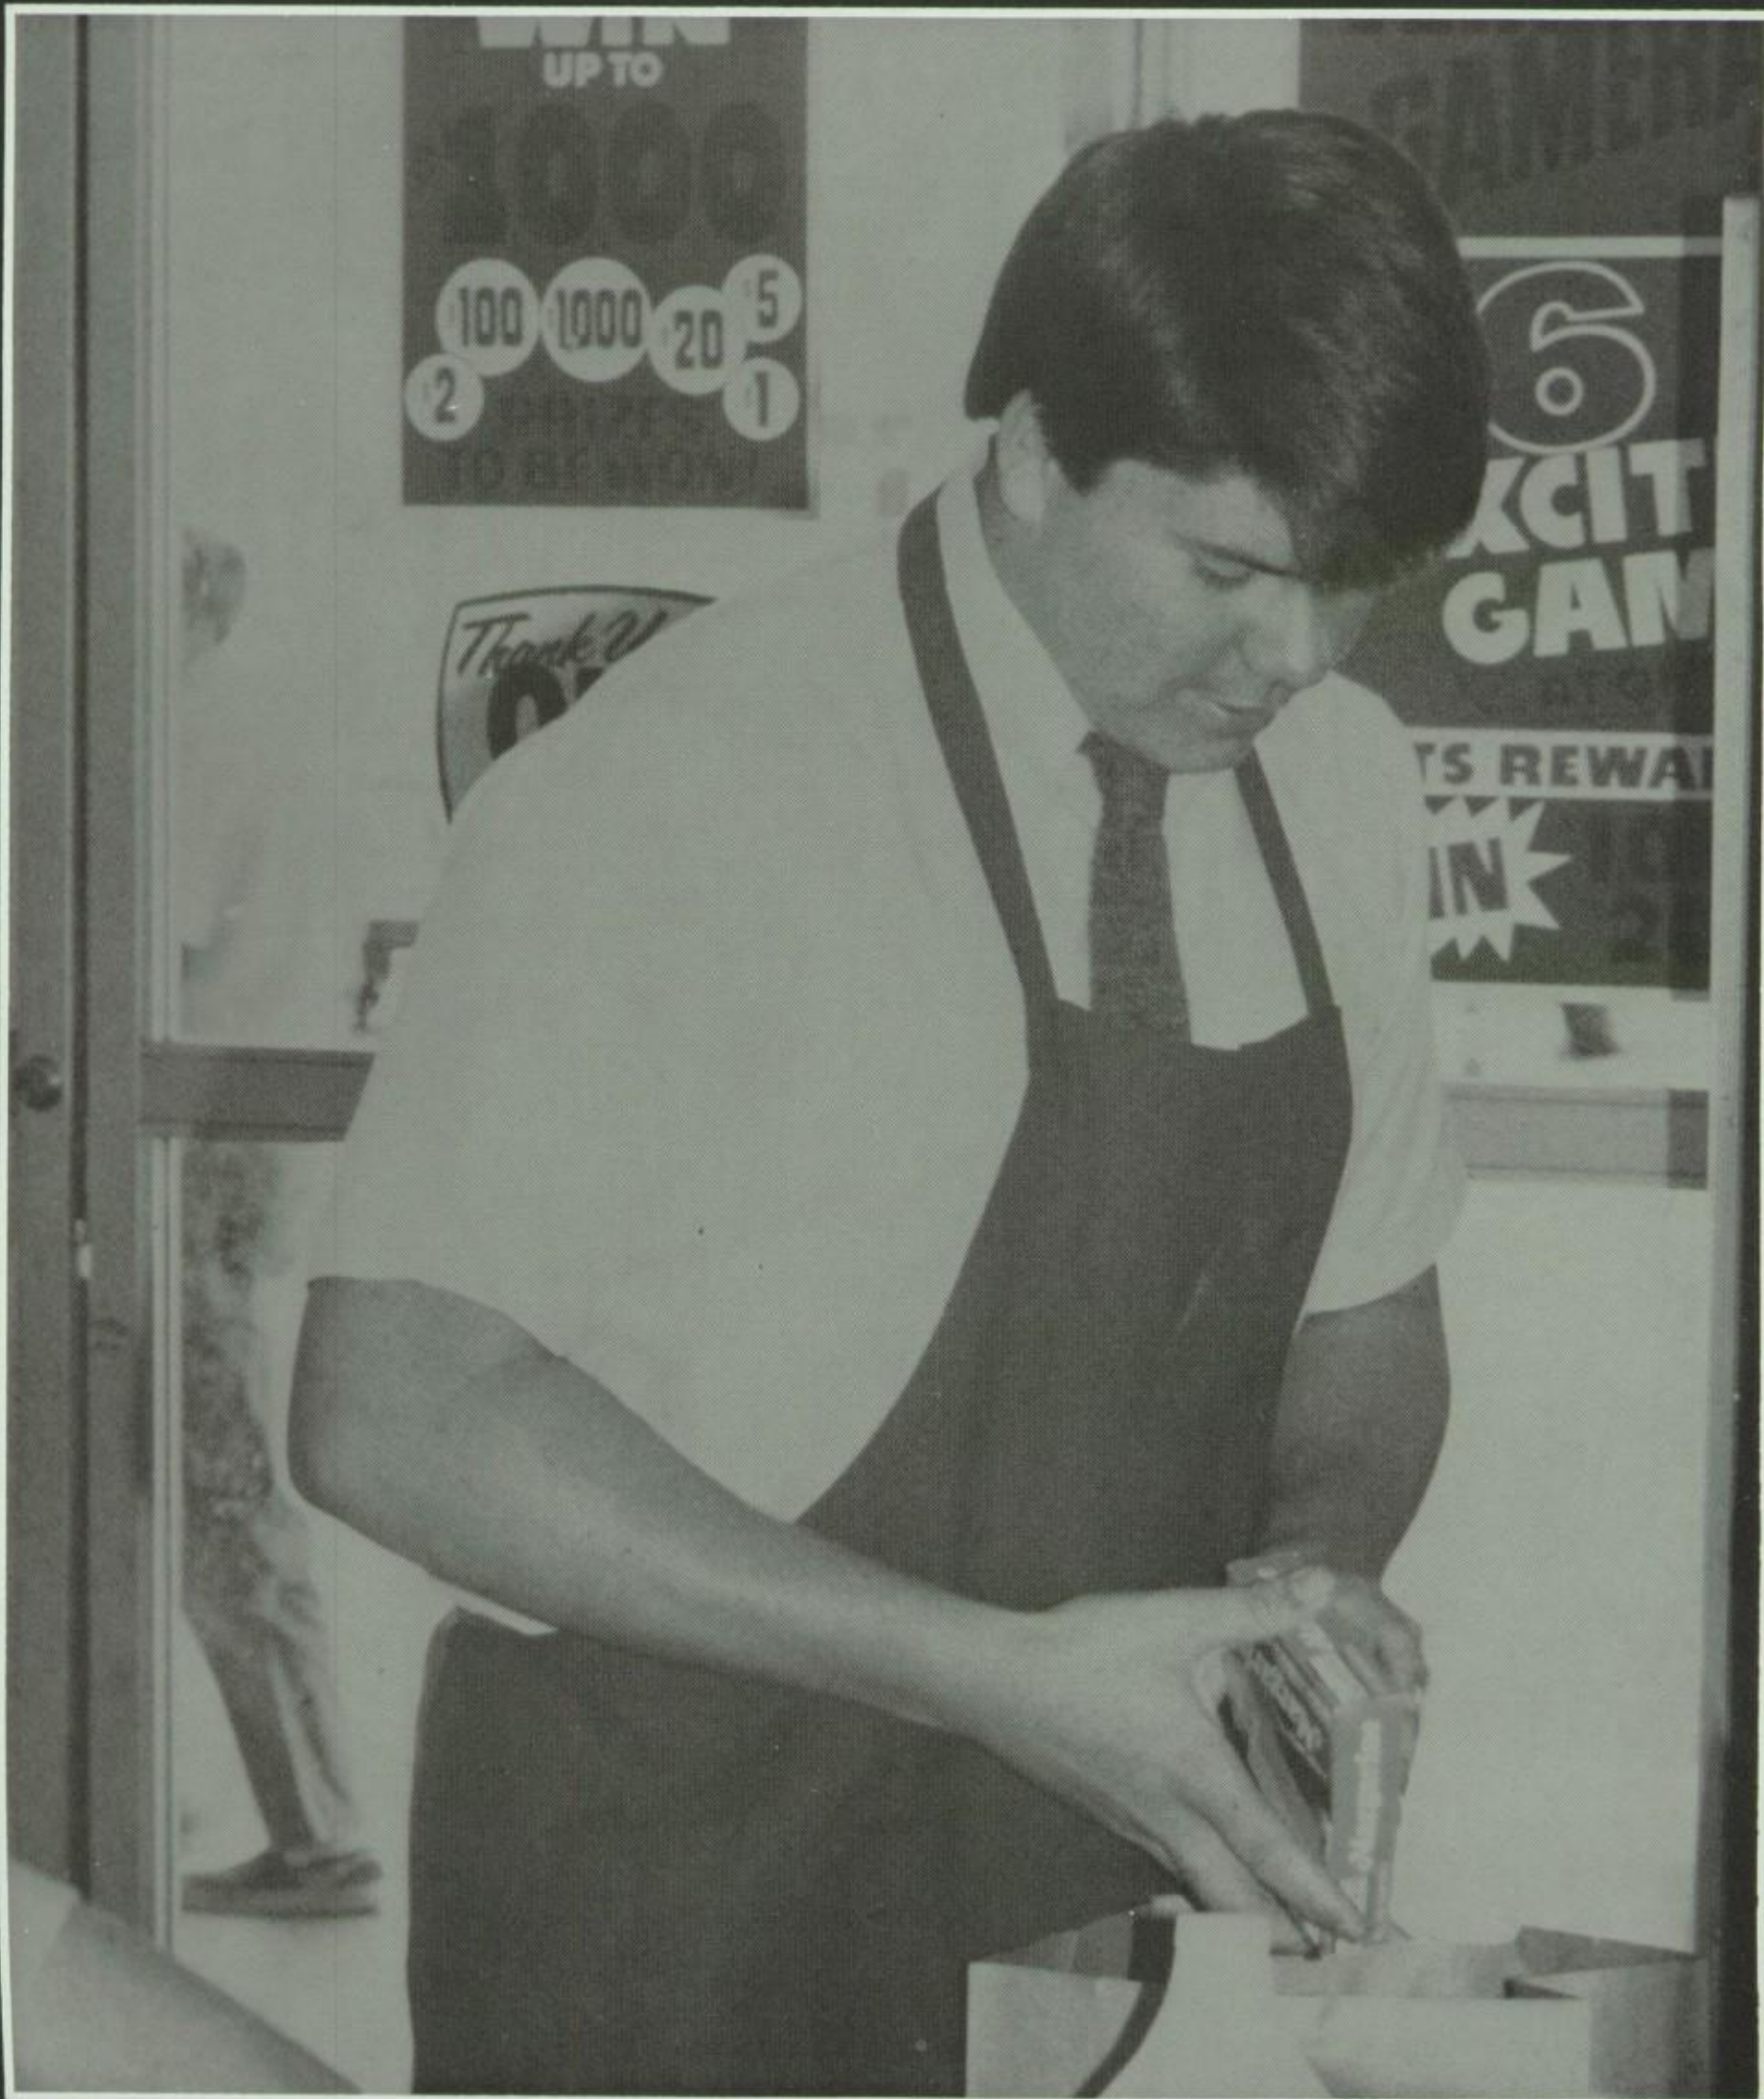

Lesa Bonagura relaxes at home in the cool summer breeze for a couple of hours.

Angie Hughes finds a new friend while vacationing at Myrtle Beach.

WORKING THROUGH THE HEAT

We could always depend on Lori Leonard to take our order at Wendy's.

Midge Lambeth insisted she has never tasted the ice cream at Mayberry while working there during the summer.

Tracyee Lambeth gives change with a smile while working at her summer job at Winn-Dixie.

Carl Christiansen tries to decide what to put where as he bags groceries at Winn-Dixie.

The bell sounded. It was 3:10! Everyone rushed to their lockers, grabbed a few books, and raced to the parking lot. Free at last! However, to many 3:10 meant rushing home to change clothes, swallowing a sandwich whole, and scampering off to their after school job.

Students worked for different reasons. Some needed to help out their folks, while others wanted their own spending money to buy those little extras like clothes and cars. There were even a few who worked just to have something to do. Can you believe that?

Jobs ranged from taking orders at restaurants, short order cooking, and cleaning up to cashiering and bagging groceries at supermarkets. Some also worked second shifts in local factories.

As soon as they finished work, they dragged home. After a quick shower, they fell onto the bed to complete their assignments for the next school day. Unfortunately, exhaustion overcame them and . . . RING "Oh no! It's 7:00 A.M. already!"

IT ALL BOILS DOWN TO ... LOVE

That special friend. It might be a sweetheart or a close friend. The meaning of friendship, however, remained the same. They shared those fun times like the shaving cream fight while working on a homecoming float, and shared the sad times like losing a close ball-game! Friends were there when the teachers returned the exams and all the grades were A's and B's except one-guess who? They were there with smiles and congratulations as the 1984 Homecoming Queen was announced-guess who again? Even though there were little spats and huge quarrels, there was one thing to count on — FRIENDS.

Darren Sullivan, Kim Tobin, Monica Hedrick, and Kelly Bowers catch their breathes between classes.

Vince Mounts and Wendy Swicegood "discuss" matters on their favorite windowsill.

Donna Nance, Anna Eller, Sherri Emmons, and Lesa Bonagura relax during break. This is a time when friends get together to catch up on the latest news.

Travis Tart and Lori Wade show how couples can sit together and work at the same time.

GOING OUT IN STYLE

As students traded in their shorts and sandals for new back to school clothes, they had to pause and think, "Is this in style this year? I don't want to look like an oddball on the first day of school!" As the buses and cars emptied, mini-skirts, sac dresses, jelly shoes, camouflage, and twist-a-beads outfitted the female student body. Males wore layered shirts, camouflage, and jean jackets. East was also up on the latest hair-styles. Rat tails hung on the necks of both sexes and a few brave souls had punk styles.

Movies set styles too. Ghostbuster T-shirts and buttons filled the stores while Karate Kid brought bandanas into fashion. The small furry Gremlins made millions in records, stuffed animals, T-shirts, and posters. Footloose provided the DJ's with "Let's Hear It for the Boy," "Footloose," and "Borderline."

Radio stations like Z-93 and G-105, along with Pepsi, played Santa Claus to lucky listeners, as they gave away trip after trip to see the Jackson's Victory Tour. MICHAEL JACKSON! Everywhere one looked, listened, or talked there was Michael Jackson — the superstar phenomena that rocked the charts and blew all sales records.

Jackson, along with other pop singers, revolutionized music television. M-TV brought today's music alive.

Without a doubt, this year brought new sights and sounds!

The denim look provides Jerri Hall with a casual look.

Amy Everhart clowns around for the photographer, as she proudly shows off her striped overalls.

Michael Jackson — He has ruled, rocked, and totally invaded the world.

GOOD-BYE SUMMER, HELLO

SCHOOL!

The buses began, the cars left home early, and the students arrived at school by 8:10. Many complained of no early release, getting put in two math classes, and simply beginning before summer was over. The students had to face reality — school had begun.

As freshmen got off the buses, they faced a new experience through a cloud of books. Freshmen wandered the halls afraid to talk and also tried to find their classes without asking any deceiving upperclassmen. The sophomores felt they knew what to do. At every freshman they saw, they laughed and remembered what their first year was like. The juniors drove up in new cars. (At least the cars were new to them.) They looked forward to changing sides of the gym and finally receiving their class rings. Seniors were a breed of their own. As they entered the doors, years of experience shone from their faces. They finally realized that this was their last chance.

The first day of school was hard for everyone. New pressures, situations, and possibilities developed from all directions. Together, the Eagles successfully survived the first day of school with heads held high looking onward to graduation day.

Tracey Soles listens attentively to all the fun things they'll do in science this year!

Travis Beck finds the first day of school exhausting, as he takes a short nap in Spanish II.

Scott Moore walks in confusion wondering if he'll ever make it through the first day of school.

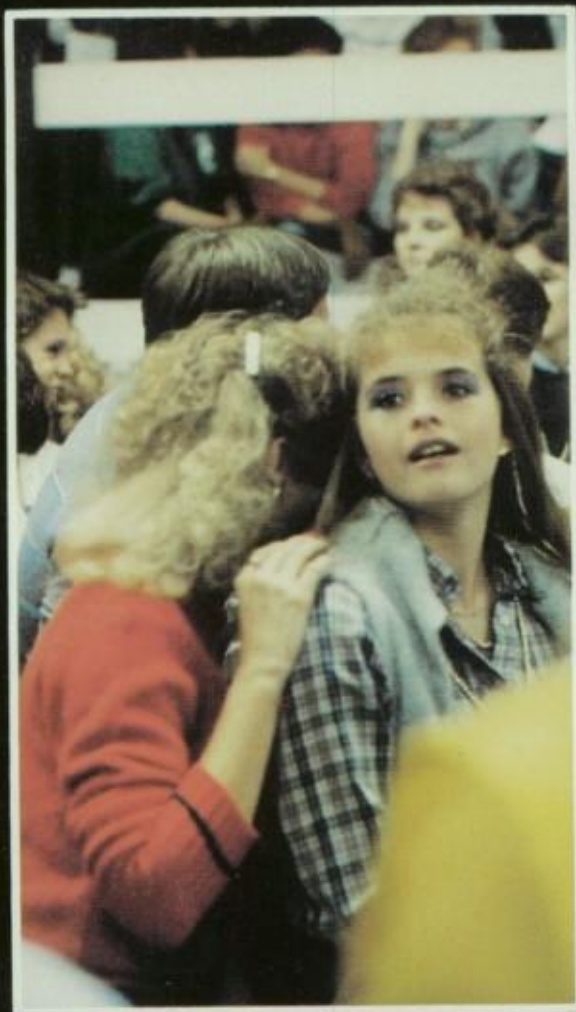

Freshmen, freshmen everywhere! The halls are crowded with freshmen walking tall, proud to be in high school.

A NIGHT FILLED WITH EXCITEMENT

The Davidson County Fair was for people of all ages. Young and old, they were all the same, for each was looking for fun and games and for the time of their lives. The students at East participated in every activity available. From the cotton candy mounds to the Himalayan Mountains, the nights of the week were filled with excitement.

Like the rest of the fair-goers, students waited for that one special evening, Thursday, September 20, when the new Miss Davidson County would be crowned. The East Davidson seniors were proud to elect Stephanie Bell as the Miss Davidson County Pageant Representative. Throughout this event, cheers, marked by pride, were expressed for the ladies, but none so proudhearted as the spirit that arose from the Eagle section. As the second runner-up and the first runner-up were announced, the suspense built. While teeth chattered and nerves rattled, the winner was declared. Our own Stephanie Bell was crowned the new Miss Davidson County.

Tammy Brown and Angie Hughes anxiously await the announcement of the new Miss Davidson County.

Stephanie Bell accepts congratulations after winning the Miss Davidson County Pageant.

Russ Hallman is the country boy at the county fair.

During the week of festivities, Henry Miller, Brian Guffey, and James Creech check out the actions of the county fair.

The highlights of fair nights to some people might be rides and games, but to Michael Albertson, Randy Gooch, Melony Batten, and Lynn Blair it is the fun times with friends.

Looking deceptively mild when in a horizontal position, the "Sea Dragon" becomes one of the fair's most exciting rides when it takes its passengers, Tina Byerly, and Joan Fritts, in an unexpected direction.

Chris Hicks and Cindy Talent try their luck at taming one of the new rides. Will he really be that bold when it is all over, or will Cindy be carrying Chris off of the Sea Dragon?

Stephanie Bell brought the East Davidson students to their feet when she flashed a smile to the crowd.

A Week Filled With Spirit

Oct. 1 marked the beginning of homecoming week. As the halls filled Monday morning with students, spirit filled the air. Monday was "Go Big Gold Day" and everyone dressed in gold and black. The cheerleaders sold "Go Eagles" pins and sweet and sour suckers. Tuesday was Hawaiian Day and stick candy was sold. On Wednesday, students and faculty members dressed in "sweats" proclaimed "No Sweat Day." Thursday was "What I want to be when I grow up Day" and fireballs were sold. Scott Callahan and Cathy Shuler won prizes for their original costumes.

The big day arrived and students wore their class's designated color. Black dominated the halls as the juniors won an extra ten minutes at break by having 65% participation. As students filed out of class for the 9:00 parade, they cheered proudly for their clubs' float as it rolled by. Prizes were awarded for first place to the Library Club, second place, Art Club and third place, Fr. Soph. Science Club and third place, Art Club.

Afterwards, students filled the stadium as enthusiasm grew among the students. The band showed its support by performing a spectacular halftime show. Various groups including cheerleaders from feeder schools, entertained the crowd. The mock homecoming cheerleaders joined the Varsity & J.V. cheerleaders, to lead favorite cheers. At this point, the mock homecoming queen was crowned. Miss Todd Byerly escorted by Mr. Sherri Cline was voted queen by the applause of the crowd.

In the victorious 48-6 win over S.W.R., Miss Stephanie Bell, chosen by the student body, was crowned Homecoming queen. To celebrate East Fans filled the Hawaiian decorated cafeteria for the homecoming dance featuring Z-93 DS Rob Leonard.

Scott Callahan one of the winners, in the "What I want to be when I grow up" contest portrayed a lovable hobo.

"Ha, Ha, Ha," says Ginny Norris and Debbie Harrill as they perform "ELECTRICITY."

Right: The J.V. Cheerleaders show their spirit as they perform a stunt during the pep rally.

The French Club says "Creme the Cougars."

"Can the Cougars" sponsored by the Library Club won first place in the float competition.

Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Atwood, Miss Holder, and Mr. Strahlman show what they want to be when they grow up during Thursday's activities.

Mock Homecoming Queen "Miss Todd Byerly escorted by "Mr." Sherri Cline was crowned by chief cheerleader Dawn Hill during the homecoming pep rally. Todd won by vote of the crowd's applause.

One highlight of Homecoming '84 was the homecoming court. Three representatives were chosen from the junior, sophomore and freshman classes and five from the senior class. The representatives were presented to the student body at the pep rally. Afterwards, the students returned to their homerooms to vote for one of the five senior girls.

The moment arrived during halftime when the queen was to be crowned. The court, along with the crowd, held their breath. Finally, the announcer's voice broke the silence. "The 1984 Homecoming Queen is ... Miss Stephanie Bell."

SENIORS

We're the Class
of 85!

A Classic Example

An important part of the seniors' year was the election of superlatives. Although many schools had abandoned the "election of the elite," it was a tradition at East. It all began in homeroom. Students carefully considered "Who is the best all round" or "Let's see, who played the most sports?" After gathering nominations, a ballot was presented to each senior for the final selection.

Eagerly, everyone awaited for the announcement. Finally, Mrs. Long posted the winners. Squeals of excitement and signs of disappointment filled the air around Room 105. Some could not believe they were actually chosen. One winner said, "This will really make my senior year special."

... And special these people are!!

Jay Peele, along with the other seniors, nominate and elect their class officers. The class meeting is in the cafeteria on Sept. 12.

"SENIORITIS: a mental disease that affects only seniors right before school starts. It has been noted to be dangerous and often quite expensive." By homecoming, many seniors had this contagious disease. It came over its senior victim and caused him or her to lose his or her train of thought when it came to anything having to do with school.

By Christmas and New Year's Day the only thoughts in many seniors' minds were graduation. As spring arrived, seniors parties appeared all over the county. May Day and the senior picnic finally rolled around, and senioritis was at its greatest spreading point. By this time, practically every senior was affected by the disease.

As a senior walked across the stage to receive his diploma, he left the disease on the stage to attack new senior victims next year.

Being a senior brought a certain closeness to everyone. After all, this was the last year for a few friendships. Many changes took place when individuals left for college or found a time-consuming job. As the time drew closer for graduation, one knew the time was drawing near for the last time the Class of 1985 would be together as a whole.

There was plenty to do before graduation. The teachers were trying to cram as much knowledge into these seniors as they possibly could, which was followed by neverending complaints. Some seniors had plans to further their education in college or technical school. For them there were college tests to take, applications to fill out, and, for many, the need to secure a place to live while at college. Responsibility was everywhere, there seemed to be no escape.

Graduation finally arrived, accompanied by tears and sighs of relief. An escape was needed in the form of vacation. There were many popular spots, but most chose the traditional Myrtle Beach for the grand finale of a long twelve years.

Clifton Hicks and Steve Myers pal up in the halls for the camera during lunch.

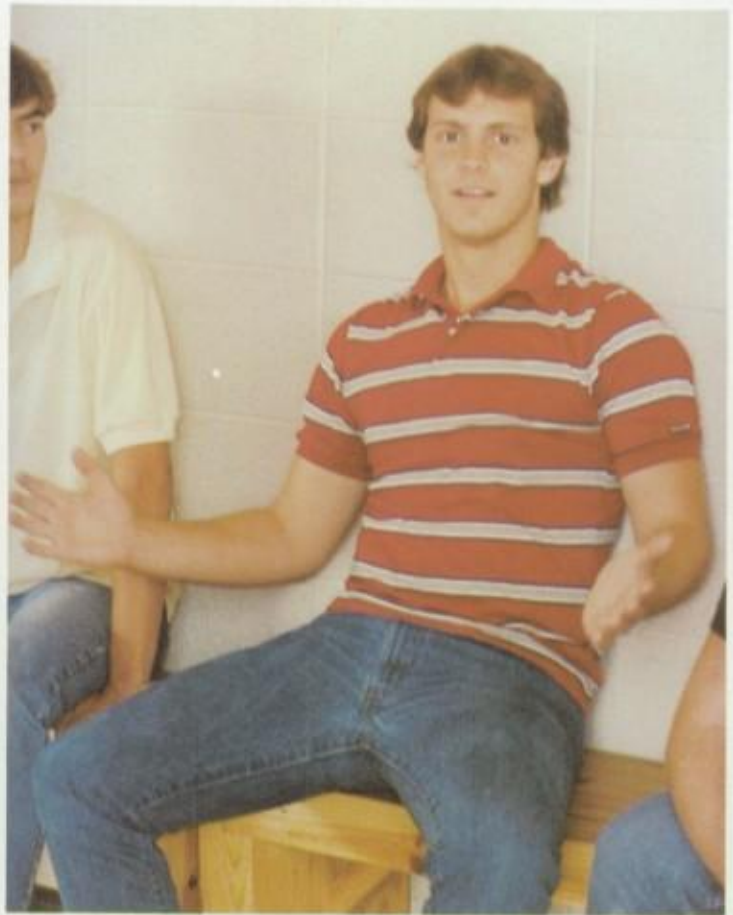

The Sandman catches up with Scotty Sellers during study hall 1st period in Mrs. Litwin's trailer.

Jennifer Batson, Kim Baumgartner, Angie Parker, and Tracey Bowers debate whether or not to study for their test in Mrs. Long's 3rd period English Class.

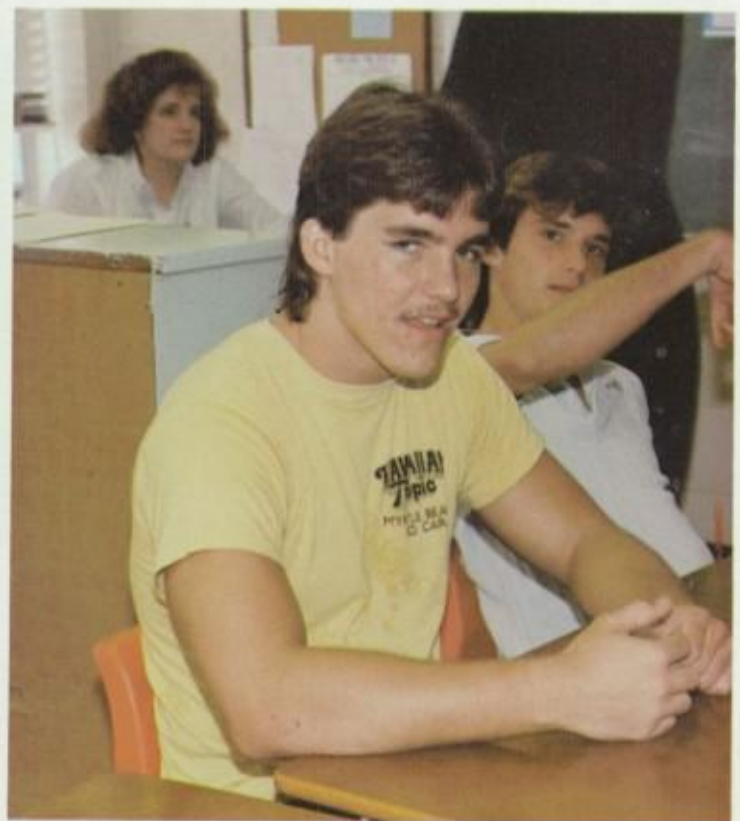

The awesome threesome, Barry King, Joey Nail, and Robert Creakman clown around as much as possible to preserve their reputation.

It is very rare to find Keith Kepley at a loss of words during break.

Tammy C. Wilson and Kim Bowers work diligently on their Beowulf project in Mrs. Snyder's room 1st period.

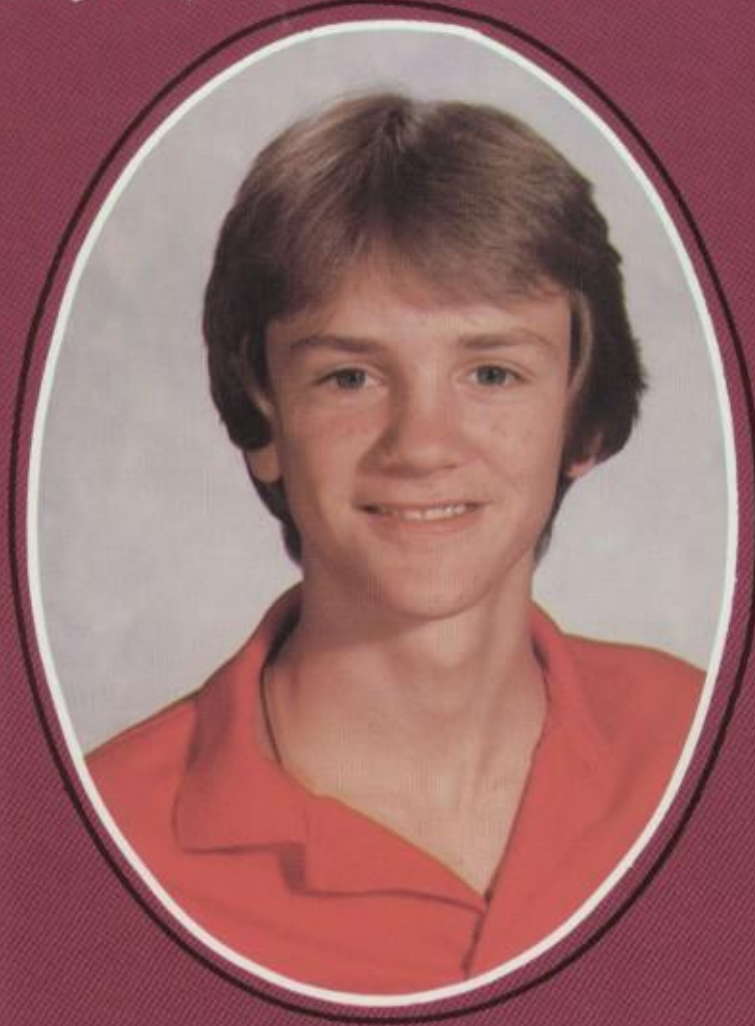

Randy Norris and Jimmie Fuller take it easy in Mrs. Long's 3rd period English class.

In Memory Of Timothy Darrell Rhodes

Some recently met him during high school, others had known him since elementary school, but to all of us he will be a treasured memory we shall never forget. Timothy Darrell Rhodes, a rising member of the graduating Class of 1985, was tragically taken away on Saturday, August 4, 1984. Tim had a special gift that made anyone ever associated with him feel a certain type of cheerfulness. He always kept a smile on his face and a happy spark in his voice. He was loved dearly by his family and friends, and he was a major part of our school, lives, and fond memories of East Davidson's past. To every person who had the joy of knowing him, Tim was an individual who could never be replaced. He had earned and will always have a special place in our hearts. May God rest his soul.

Our greatest blessings go out to Tim's family and relatives. In memory of him, the Senior Class placed a plaque in the library which will remain there always.

JUNIORS

We Have Our Fun, We Get
Our Kicks,
We're the Class of "86."

Chatting before the bell rings is a familiar sight in the Junior Class. Kristy Coggins tells Leigh Jones some interesting news.

Are you known for . . .

- . . . hitting the freshmen with your new class ring?
- . . . Christmas shopping for a tuxedo or a prom dress?
- . . . Showing off the new pride and joy of your life, your new car?
- . . . wearing a black leather jacket and strutting around the halls?
- . . . stuffing people into trash cans or lockers?
- . . . spinning out of the school driveway after school with eager impatience for the weekend to come?
- . . . riding around uptown on the weekend with a carload of friends?
- . . . exchanging class rings with your most favorite person?
- . . . selling just enough doughnuts to get by and hating the day you ever saw those ten dozen you ordered?
- . . . shivering at football games wrapped in your new letter jacket?
- . . . screaming at pep rallies as everyone turns to look for the loud-mouth in the crowd?
- . . . getting a part-time job to support your weekend moments of joy?
- . . . experiencing the embarrassing moment of dressing up for Beta Club and listening to everyone laugh at you for weeks afterwards?
- . . . making the varsity team and getting to play with the "big" people?

If you answered "yes" to at least eight of these things, you were a real junior! As juniors, the Class of '86 united in many ways as a very large family.

Lovable, Lude, Lushish Lockers

Although some lockers are strictly one subject lockers, Sherri Cline's seems to be full of a little bit of everything.

Brent Byerly's locker reflects the spirit of the 1984 Varsity Football team. The cheerleaders provided some encouragement during homecoming week by decorating each player's locker.

Prince appears to be the topic most vivid in Jeri Lynn Hall's locker, as he is pictured from magazines, newspapers, and posters.

Bright purples, brilliant blues, sunshine yellows, rosy reds, and grassy greens were all part of the rainbow-like halls. As one strolled down the halls of the cheerful school, he did not see those drabby, brownish-gray lockers. Wrapped, tied, pasted up, hung up, and taped on decorations sprung out at him, while the students exchanged their books for their next class.

Although there remained a few of the depressingly plain lockers, every locker presented personality. One might have been stacked. One might have been rolled, while the one beside of it was full of sweetheart pictures. Some contained mirrors, while others bore rated "R" cutouts from magazines. Some appeared frilly, as others had musclemen and stylish sports cars in them. Still more held photographs of a favorite star, and the locker below it contained the leftovers that would not fit above. Lockers held real meaning; they were exciting, creative, and one of those things a person never outgrew.

Teddy bears are the main attraction in the locker of Carol Hughes. These cute little critters create an aura of innocence.

Zooming In!

As the beginning of the 84-85 school year zoomed in, so did a few hot, new cars. The parking lot, filled to capacity with cars, became the one advantage of Class of '86. Proudly parking their cars, some new, some new only to themselves, the Junior Class was alert to comments and surprised reactions; as their friends noticed the immaculately clean vehicles.

Just turning sixteen meant getting a car, riding around uptown, hauling friends to go to a party or home, or just enjoying the loudness of the radio without getting fussed at by Mom or Dad. Spinning out of the parking lot became a familiar sight after school, as well as racing uptown on the weekend. Truly, cars became a large part in the juniors' lives.

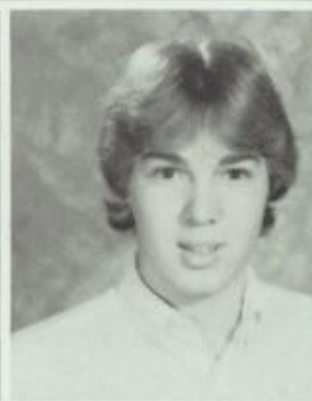

As the "Kelly Car" revs up, Kelly Childers grins at the thought of the upcoming events for the evening.

Decisions, Decisions!!

As friends gather in a circle, new class rings brighten their hands. They compare their traditional styles or modern designs.

As juniors raced through the halls with shiny new class rings on their fingers, a radiance glowed from their smiles. Once again the thought of all of the upcoming events they would experience as juniors and seniors crossed their minds. Graduation was not that far away, prom time was coming closer every day, serious relationships began anew, and friendships strengthened.

The class ring meant a lot to an individual. This symbol of love showed togetherness and separation, peace and turmoil, in short, love and war. Some couples exchanged class rings, while others chose to keep theirs. The traditional "turning of the rings" became evident, as juniors scrambled to get their eighty-six turns in before anyone else. Laughter spread through the halls. Smiles freshened the faces of the faculty, as they were asked to help out in the crisis. On the whole, the Junior Class was together in everything. A certain closeness built up around them, as they shared their once-in-a-lifetime moments as friends.

The Guiding Hand

As the juniors approached their senior year, they faced a major decision. They finally had to choose what to do with their lives.

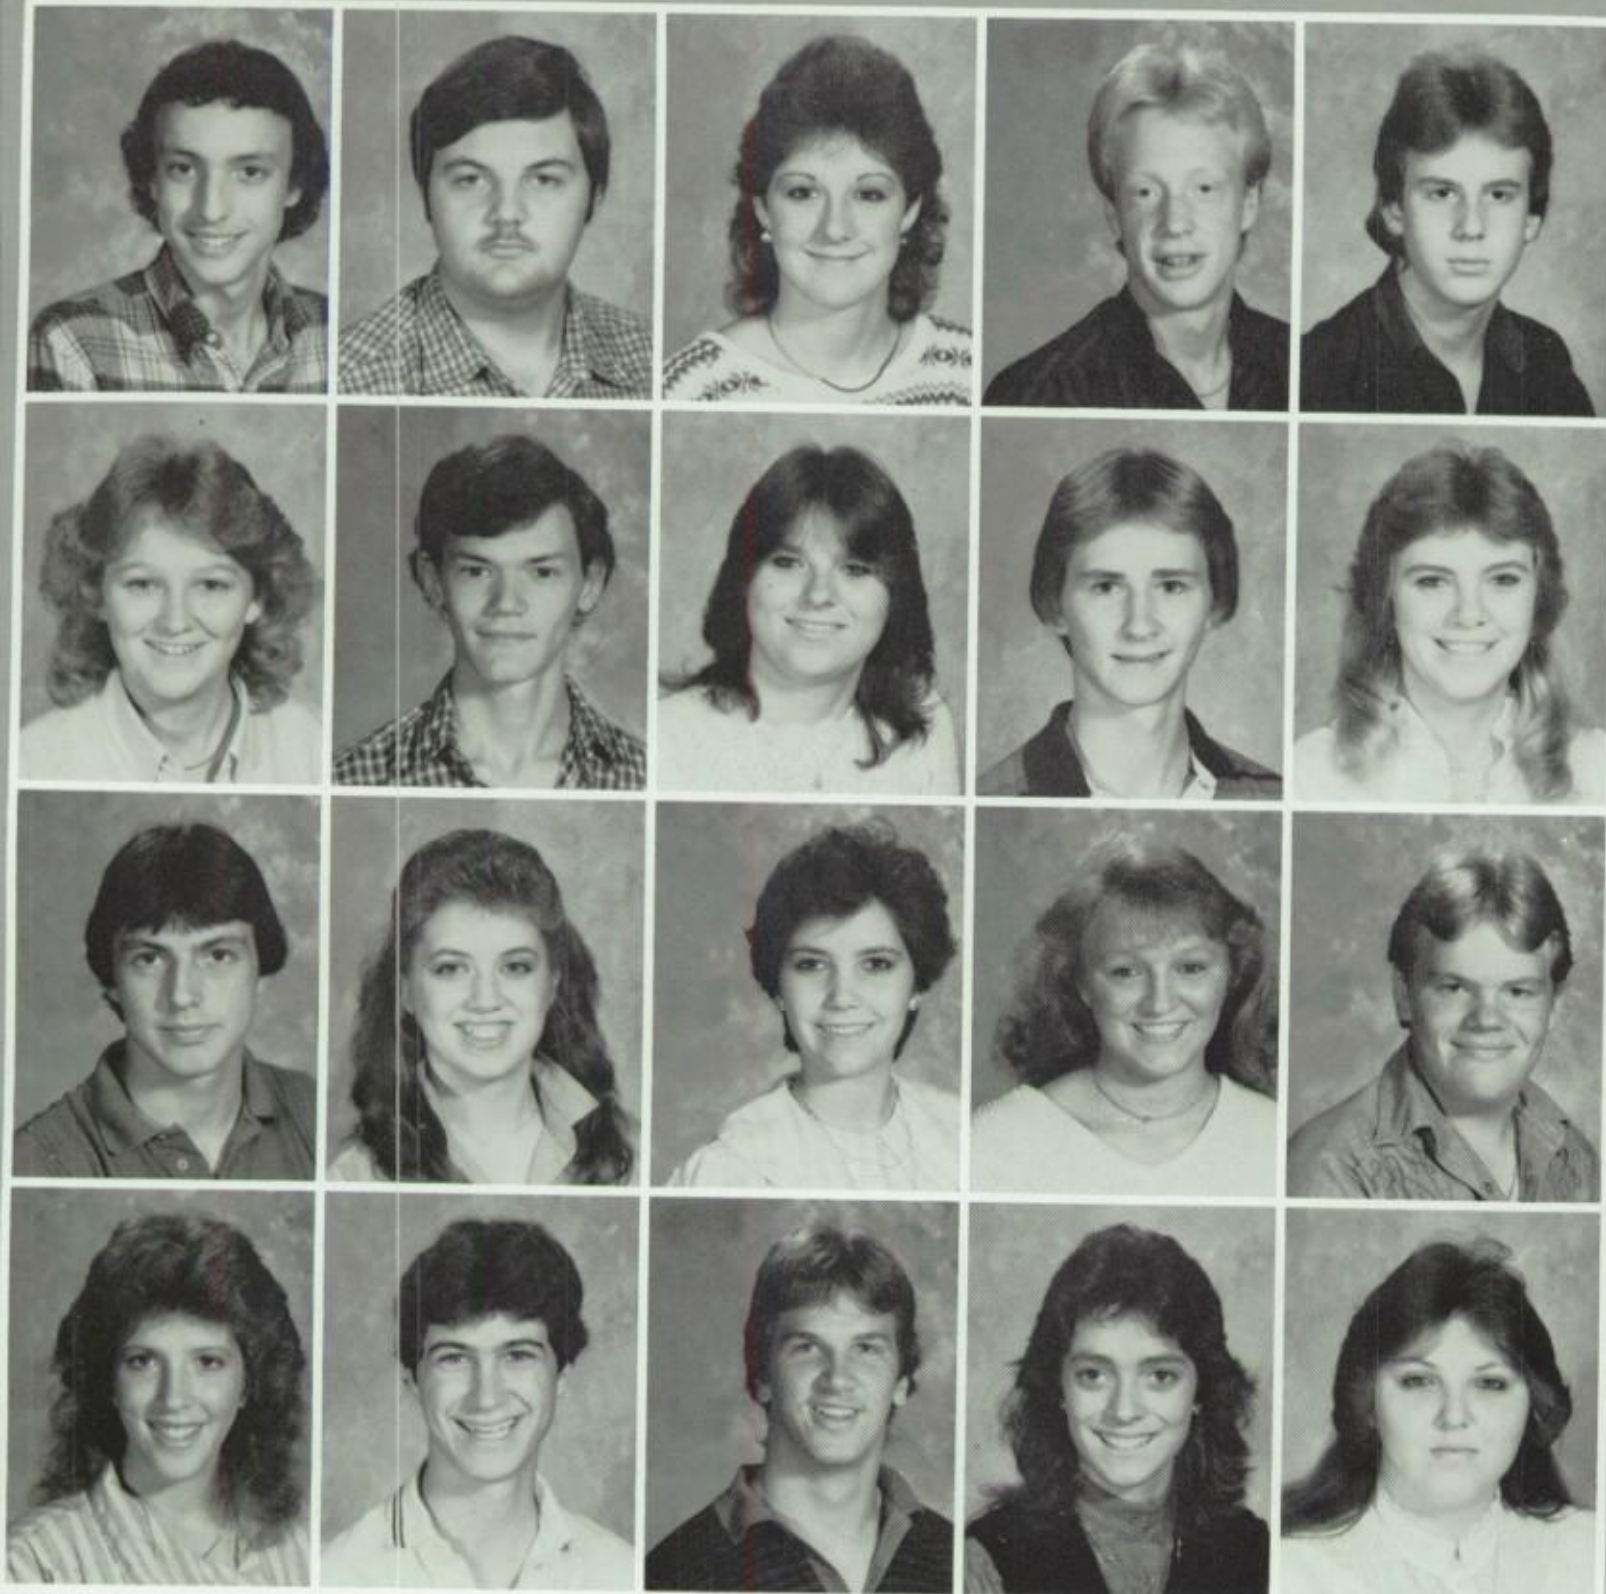

Two people who were instrumental in each junior's decision were the guidance counselors, Mike Scott and Debbie Chance. They advised the students on the best fields of major for colleges and helped them fill out applications. They also kept the students posted on the college-preparatory tests which were given.

The Guidance Department also directed students in occupational careers. Many juniors applied for jobs the day they turned sixteen. Some of these jobs ranged from working in factories to working in fast food restaurants. Accepting these new responsibilities were only one part of growing up.

Sweet Treat Defeat

A few juniors sat alone in the cafeteria. They anxiously drank Cokes and talked to each other. Suddenly, the ultimate became real. The invasion of the dreaded green and red monsters had begun. A loud roar of excited and fearful voices rose up. Over all the noise a faint cry was heard. "Doughnuts, doughnuts, give me a BREAK!!!"

The juniors had once again begun their doughnut sale. Confusion and conflict filled the air. "Where are my doughnuts?", "We've got too many boxes!", and "How in the heck am I going to sell all these doughnuts?" were all familiar cries on the day of doughnut delivery.

Each junior who attended the Junior-Senior Prom was required to pay $30 or sell 30 boxes of doughnuts. Most chose the latter. After numerous trips to their cars, other classrooms, and around the halls, the juniors finally received their just rewards.

One of the hardest parts of selling the doughnuts is getting people to buy them. Craig Black and Steve Worley joke and laugh about selling their doughnuts.

Carol Hughes thinks of the few hours left before she receives her doughnuts. Many students look upon this occasion with dread, while others smile and hungrily accept their boxes.

At least three times a year, the familiar sight of the cafeteria tables is hidden by delicious doughnuts. Each junior is required to sell 30 boxes of doughnuts or pay $30 in order to go to the prom.

Just One More Year

Walking through the halls, one saw posted on the office windows driver's education sheets. Each sophomore stopped to gaze to see if his name appeared on the list.

Finally, the day came to drive. Walking out to the car each looked at the other and said "Are you all sure you do not want to drive first?" What they did not know was that each had never been underneath the wheel of a vehicle. So one hopped in the driver's seat, put on the seatbelt, and started the ignition. Later, when approaching an intersection he suddenly froze. Mr. Moore said, "Son, you have the right-of-way." "Oh, I am sorry, I did not hear you."

Tammy Parrish doesn't know if she wants to drive first or not. Fear is a familiar emotion on the first day of Driver's Ed.

The Silly Things We Do

Were sophomores really considered silly? Well, it was time to really find out the truth. One sophomore walked down the hall and knocked the other sophomore against the locker and ran. They walked down the hall yelling loudly at their friends, so they could get them in trouble. Sophomores were bold enough to wear new fashions and hair styles. They were also known for standing in groups giggling at the opposite sex. Passing notes in class while the teacher was lecturing was also a slick move on the sophomore's part. Excessive talking in class about dates, jobs, driver's licenses, and clothes was traced back a sophomore.

Yes, one could definitely say sophomores were a little silly, but they were great people too!

JUST MY LUCK!

After arriving at school while getting off the bus, he missed the last step and dropped all of his books. Embarrassed, he quickly picked them up. The first thing he did was go to his locker to put his books inside. He opened the locker door, and all of his books fell out on the floor.

The 8:10 bell rang to go to class, and he was still cleaning up the mess around his locker. Suddenly, the late bell rang and footsteps were heard running down the hall.

At the other end of the hall stood the principal. He said "Son, where are you supposed to be?" Turning red, he stammered, "Well huh!"

Arriving in class, the teacher said, "You are late. Go to the office and get a note."

As he slowly walked down the hall, he looked up and mournfully said, "Why me?"

It has been one of those days for Ann Godbey. As soon as she opened her locker, it decided to empty itself.

Testing Your Nerve

Out of the 180 days of school, 90 of these days were spent taking tests — achievement tests, vocabulary tests, AS-VAB and so on.

As the teacher passed the papers out, sweat began to pop out. The class begged her to postpone it, not aware of the fact that they had forgotten to study. It was a losing battle. The test was inevitable, and failure was almost certain.

A sick feeling filled one person's stomach. He had come to the conclusion that the only way out was to cheat. He started writing all the facts he could remember on his hand. He prayed he would not get caught. How embarrassing that would be!

As he slowly turned the test over, he sighed with relief. He knew the answers. "This isn't worth it. I'm going to study for sure next time."

"BILINGUALS LOVE TO MINGLE"

While receiving registration forms in the spring of their freshmen year, some sophomores decided to sign up of French and others signed up for Spanish.

The first day of class arrived. "Como se llama?" and "Comment t'appelles-tu?" were directed at the unsuspecting students. One student though silently, "What have I gotten myself into?"

Things grew increasingly better. One day they received their pen pals. It was interesting to correspond with people from Japan to Ireland of their own age. Then there was the food. Delicious!

As spring rolled around, they were faced with another decision — whether to take French II and Spanish II. "Why not? This year wasn't all that bad."

“Line Up”

Freshmen looked back upon their first day of P.E. and chuckled. On that day, however, it was a totally different story.

While getting dressed, they noticed that they had forgotten to pack any gym socks. There they were — standing in front of everyone with new white tennis shoes and navy dress socks!

Walking to the gym in front of P.E. II and Physical Development classes was the pits. They laughed and jeered about “all the munckins in their little P.E. uniforms.”

They made it through exercises, ran laps, and welcomed the blowing of the whistle. Stopping for a breath, they were divided up into team for “War.” War it was! Upperclassmen knocked them, threw them, and cut them down.

They survived but they would not wish that experience on anyone — except possibly next year's freshmen.

Touchdown!

Freshmen attempted to find many activities to occupy their time. Their pastimes ranged from gossiping in a remote corner to walking away from smart remarks by upperclassmen.

America's favorite pastime was played on the front lawn beside the parking lot. Tag football attracted many players as well as fans. It was played before school, during breaks, and during any spare time allotted to the freshman students. Football fever had definitely hit the freshman boys.

Freshmen Leaders

The freshmen entered into the life of a senior high school student through a state of confusion. Not knowing any of the functions of the school, they sought out authoritative figures to organize their wonderful freshman life. They found the leadership qualities they wanted in four people — Kim Tobin — President; Gail Staley — Vice-President; Amy Cannon — Secretary, and Brian Hunt — Treasurer. All the freshmen had to do was sit back and relax and choose the perfect girl "to represent their class with class." Miss Freshman — Amy Rice was the final person that stood out in everyone's mind to represent the Class of '88.

That's Life

Amy Cannon, Annette Jenkins, and Dena Swink study intensely for a major test in the halls before their classes start.

What was it like being a freshman? New school, new places, and new faces experienced by them carried everlasting meaning in their hearts. New-found freedom was one joy lots of freshmen enjoyed. Having the ability to choose ideas, class leaders, friends, and classes made school more enjoyable. Six longer classes instead of eight, two breaks instead of one, and not having to spend the entire lunch in the cafeteria were a few luxuries encountered by the freshmen.

Life as a freshman could easily be summed up by a few quotes and phrases:

"It's pretty cool — 'cause I'm cool at it"

— Kristy Smith

"It's better. It's like you get out of jail."

— Ashley Sparks

"You feel more grown-up. You're not treated like a baby."

— Mary Joyce Ferguson

"I was able to get away from my brother."

— Jordon Everhart

"I felt big!" — Chris Stilwell

Sophomores and freshmen relate well with one another, as demonstrated by Norman Anderson and Gail Staley during class changes in the halls.

Catching The Eagle Spirit

Fourteen was a very dominant number in the life of a freshman. This number was their average age and also the amount of freshmen who yelled at the first pep rally! (That included the four freshmen cheerleaders!)

Pep was not lacking, but experience was. Once in the football stadium, the freshmen quickly learned the ropes. Pep rallies were time in which one's self-restraint could explode into protecting the reputation of one's class. The Class of '88 lost much of their pride at the beginning of the first pep rally, when an expected yell was in turn wimpered by the fourteen freshmen. Being good sports, the Class of '88 survived their first pep rally. They learned the cheers of the school and devised an excellent class cheer which they would share with following freshmen for years to come.

Knowledgeable, Considerate, And Generous . . .
ALL SUM UP OUR MR. KENNEDY

For twenty-three years one member of the Eagle staff had served his purpose well, not only as a teacher, but also as a friend. Taking time out to help students individually, this unique man showed concern for each of his students. By working with them, the students prospered, grew, and fit into the community with a better sense of realization.

Because of these special relations he shared with the Eagle student body and the loyalty and devotion he showed, we, the Claw Staff, would like to dedicate the 1985 Claw to you, Mr. Carl Kennedy. Thanks for sharing your knowledge and patience, as well as your concern, with the students and faculty at East Davidson High School.

Benjamin Terrell
Principal

Evan Myers
Vice-Principal

Smiles stretched across deeply tanned faces as friends once again reunited and hails were sent with a cheerful greeting. Mr. Myers strolled down the halls listening to the familiarly noisy rumble of days gone by.

There was a void, however, in the masses. Mr. Terrell had to join the students late in September due to illness. In his absence, Mr. Myers, admirably acted as both organizer, disciplinarian, and advisor. He, along with the faculty and student body, was glad to see Mr. Terrell's smiling face and energetic personality return to the Eagle hallways. Again, the team was together. Their spirit, dedication, and support were vital to East's success.

A Strong Arm And A Strong Mind . . .

Make A Strong School

Mr. Terrell is never too busy to stop and discuss a serious problem with one of the students as Philemon Taylor finds out.

Mr. Myers is easily recognized by his stern look. He must be strict in order to be an effective disciplinarian.

"It is definitely going to be one of those days!" With all of the problems that a principal must face, Mr. Terrell expects a few of those days.

Teachers were not always noted just for their actions but also for what they said. Those little quotes that made eyes roll and faces somber made a teacher a person. Some of the most notable quotes were —

"Next, just like a barber shop!" — D. Hedrick

"El Chicle en el cesto, no en la boca!" (Chewing gum in the trash can, not in your mouth!) — S. Clark

"Allez au tableau, s'il vous plait" (Go to the board, please!) — R. Snyder

"Two breaks, please!" — W. Snyder

"Okay, folks!" — D. Stephenson

"Perfection, girls!" — H. Holder

"Nothing great was ever achieved without ENTHUSIASM!" — J. Smith

"People, you're going to need this for college!" — C. Long

"If you see anything that needs to be done, DO IT!" — W. Cline

"Move your feet, bend your knees, concentrate, and call the ball!" — G. Fowler

Support At All Times!

The PTSA was a national organization in which parents, students, and faculty members held membership. The general objectives of the PTSA were to promote the welfare of youth, to bring the home and school into a closer relationship, and to develop between educators and the general public unified effort to secure the highest possible advantage for every student.

In order to accomplish this goal, the PTSA sponsored many workshops and activities. Sessions on parenting and parent-teen relationships were led by Dr. Don Patterson, a psychiatrist with the Davidson Mental Health Center. This workshop was held in the school library October 9, 16, and 23. The annual bake sale was held during the Thomasville Christmas Parade on November 17. In January the PTSA sponsored financial aid workshop to help parents and students to prepare for college expenses. Of all the activities the PTSA undertook, the Junior-Senior Prom Breakfast was one of the most enjoyable.

The Band Boosters follow the Marching Eagles to the Forbush competition. These faithful fans cheer as the Eagles win first place flags, rifles, and percussion.

The goal of the Band Boosters was to support the band program in any way they possibly could. Through donations, pizza sales, concessions, fruit sales and the Haunted Trail; the band boosters supported the band financially. As avid fans of the band, they enthusiastically followed the band to competitions, concerts, and games. Monthly, the boosters sponsored a supper at the Lion's Club. This year 20 extra band uniforms were purchased along with many other instrument improvements and repairs. The visitor concessions stand was improved with a pizza oven and other renovations to the facilities. Through cooperation, support, and good attendance, the boosters made this year a success.

The Advisory Council for 1984-85 played a major role in the lives of the students of East Davidson. These four people continuously looked for new ideas to make the school grow in all aspects. As a council they helped to advise the administration and other people on important decisions. With their many responsibilities they became an important part of the decision-making process. They were an essential portion to the student body.

Athletic Booster Club Officers: President — Toby Varner, Vice President — Harold Dancy, Secretary — Martha Anderson, Treasurer — Kaye Palmer.

At the beginning of the 1984-85 year, the Athletic Boosters set their goals of rebuilding the baseball field and renovating the football stadium stands. These goals were obtained through the help of a great deal of borrowed money. In order to repay their loan, the boosters sponsored many fund-raisers. Through drawings for a car and a beef cow, the Athletic Boosters raised money. They also sponsored barbeque and spaghetti suppers. Money was also made from concessions sold during the football and basketball games.

Through the support of parents, the community, and the students, the boosters were able to accomplish their ambitions. The baseball field was ready for the opening game of the 1985 season. The football stadium was also completed in time for the 1985 football schedule as well as the new conference. This year the boosters were able to see what it was like to have a long-time dream become reality.

Get The News While It's Hot!

Lights, camera, action!" As the new class became alive with action and energy, news reports, radio broadcasts, and a new school magazine were in the making. Mass Media, instructed by an enthusiastic Denise Stephenson, developed into what students recognized as an exciting, adventurous classroom full of creativity and special talents. The first-year class held sixteen members who knew nothing of what was ahead, only that big plans, ideas, and events were to form to begin the start of a whole new angle in their lives. Events like "Total Makeover" and song dedications to friends on the news pulled in supporters from the student body. Early morning announcements made by the newly created "Rockin' Rob" were not only entertaining but highly informative. Music added to the reports became an obvious attention-getter, as the student body declared the radio broadcasts "smashing hits"! Many members of the mass media class, including Mrs. Stephenson, strived year-long for the reputation of a family team. Although many of the members were behind the scenes, they still contributed a tremendous effort towards this class.

COMPUTER MUMBO-JUMBO HITS EAST.

This past year the academic programs were greatly enhanced by the use of computers. Almost all the teachers received a computer to plan and to research projects for their classes. The computers were added in hopes of making classes more interesting and getting more students involved. The motivation did not stop there; teachers were also able to use the computers to reduce their workload.

These computers have helped greatly in the business area, office education, and the math and science departments. The coaches found their computers to be an asset in analyzing their plays and researching their strengths and weaknesses. The teachers were thrilled with the arrival of their computers and eagerly participated in classes and workshops to learn more about the computers.

Mrs. Wilson mainly worked with the students teaching them basic skills such as students worked on computers. This knowledge enabled students to go the Guidance Office and check through the computer for career opportunities.

No Matter How Unbelievable To You . . . Teachers Are People, Too!

Who were these people — the ones who filed out of the school building from 3:00 P.M. on? If followed one day, one would discover that they shed that reserved, protective image as they climbed into their cars. After arriving home, off went the shoes and on came the jeans and t-shirts. Hard to imagine?

Next, it was into the kitchen to start supper and then play with the children. Some went outside to wash the car or mow the lawn. Most of their evenings were spent typing tests, grading papers, and preparing lesson plans. However, when they took a night off, they could be found pushing a grocery cart at Winn-Dixie or standing in line to see a movie.

Summer vacations were more than just their "R. & R." Relaxing around the pool was a luxury. Most were working part-time jobs or taking additional classes.

As August rolled around, however, they traded in the golf clubs, garden tools, and student parking stickers to begin a new school year. They unpacked stored books, decorated their rooms with colorful bulletin boards, and prepared fresh new lesson plans. Yes, these people were teachers, but also they were friends.

After using his mental facilities all day, Greg Fowler and friend Glen Gallimore decide to see how effective muscle power can be while working in his yard at home.

Back On The Right Track

J.V. player Norman Anderson gets a taste of varsity action. During practice Coach Davis shows Norman some of the plays that will be used against Denton. There are times throughout the season when a J.V. player may be moved up to varsity for a specific game.

When the 1976 football team ended with a winning season, few people realized that it would be eight years before East would post another .500 record. With the theme "Moving Toward Excellence," the football team took the field with a fresh attitude. Under the new leadership of head coach Bill Davis, the Eagles adopted the Pro Eye and Veer offenses. He then experimented with key positions to find the right combination.

The first few games were indeed trial and error. The coaching staff knew there was a key to the winning formula, but where? Finally in the game against S.W. Randolph, it was discovered. With Vince Mounts as a scrambling quarterback and Russ Hallman and Chad Elbersen in the backfield, the Eagles began bulldogging for extra yardage that accumulated first downs. This was aided by the effective coverage of the front line — Larry Williams, Travis Myers, Van Goins, and Chris Hicks. An added weapon was the end position. Supplied by ends Coy Blair and Erik Kelly and split-end Eric Gainey, the attack was complete.

Already the defense had proven itself. Linebackers Randy Norris and Travis Myers, along with noseguard Jeff Worley, backed the defensive wall. Together, they hindered any offensive movement.

Onlookers also recognized their strength. When the all-county team was announced, East placed three players — Safety Vince Mounts, Linebacker Randy Norris, and Flanker Eric Gainey. Named to the CCC All-Conference team were Larry Williams — offensive tackle and Vince Mounts — free safety.

"Moving Toward Excellence," the 1984 football team had made those first steps as a challenge for future teams.

Vince Mounts evades a defender in the game against North Stanley. The swiftness of a quarterback can save or even add precious yardage.

Randy Norris accepts a drink from one of the managers before re-entering the game. The players realize the importance of these individuals.

Statistician Darryl Waisner and Coach Ward look on anxiously as Jordan Matthews scores their first touchdown.

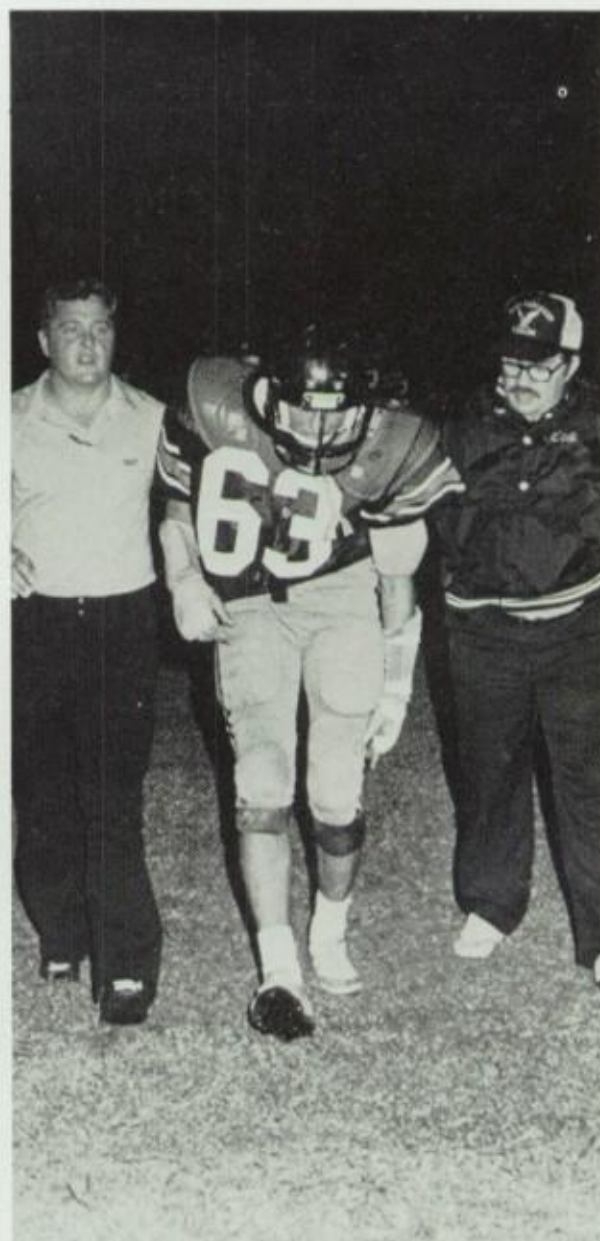

Coach Davis and Coy Blair review a passing pattern that will be used in the next play. Coy proved to be one of the key senior leaders.

Travis Myers is helped off the field by Coaches Ward and House. The knee injury does not stop Travis from re-entering the game.

The air of victory filled the fieldhouse after the J.V. squad stomped West Davidson 25-0 in the season finale. The win meant a 7-2 season and tying with powerhouses Randleman and S.W. Guilford for first place in the CCC.

Head J.V. Coach Gary Cress was assisted by the other football coaches in drilling the young team in the fundamentals. Practice began with the J.V. and varsity squads working together during "team time" for approximately one hour. Afterwards, they separated to work on their individual plays.

The positive attitude of the squad enabled the team to become early contenders in the conference. With team leaders like Reggie Morris, Eddie Skipper, and Norman Anderson providing motivation and enthusiasm, the team rose above the odds and came out the victors.

The cheerleaders dazzle their audience as they perform one of their original stunts during pre-game.

When the silence broke with the throaty "Ready," Eagle fans knew the cheerleaders were ready to lead the crowd in spirit raising chants. The eight young ladies smiled, jumped, yelled, and danced to the delight of their audience. Cheerleaders really had it made, or did they?

Looking behind the scenes, one saw a busy first year sponsor Heidi Holder trying hard to make a strong impression on her girls as well as East. Early in July they packed up the van and headed for National Cheerleading Camp at Davidson College. All of their long hours of work paid off, as they came home as overall first runners-up.

As school started, the squad began to prepare for the football season. Besides the cheers, there were dances to learn; suckers, stickers, and shakers to sell; and posters to draw. Without a moment to spare, they moved toward homecoming. There were thousands of things to do in a small amount of time — spirit week, the parade, pep rally, half time, and the dance.

With just a chance to catch their breaths, it was into basketball. More practices, more selling, more WORK! Dedication was a main factor. One gave all or nothing. There was no in-between.

Cheerleaders spend many hours creating, designing, and drawing colorful posters for the halls and stadiums. On special occasion they even decorate the team's lockers.

We've Got Spirit

Performing the staircase stunt at the Ledford pep rally brought the approval of the student body.

Harmony is an essential element in any group, especially cheerleading. The 1984-85 J.V. cheerleading squad had this asset of working together.

It all began after spring tryouts. Immediately, they started preparing for next year. On June 30th they packed up the van and headed for Duke University and UCA Cheerleading Camp. After pulled muscles and near exhaustion, they came away with five blue ribbons, one spirit stick, and the Most Improved Squad trophy.

Their work was not over. Sponsor Sherry Litwin and the girls practiced Monday through Thursday for two hours during the summer. As football season approached, they were ready.

Besides cheerleading, they sold homecoming corsages and programs. The squad also made posters for the J.V. games and provided refreshments for the homecoming dance. They even helped the J.V. football team celebrate their victorious season by surprising them with a party.

Each J.V. squad member looked forward to a place on the varsity squad. "I feel like we'll then get the recognition we deserve for all our hard work. But most importantly, I love being a cheerleader."

Amy Rice, Angela Almond and Caprice Sink add a little modern rhythm to their cheers.

Greg Holste and Jay Daniels position themselves in the lead during the host match against Ledford and Denton.

As the runners begin their 3.3 mile run, East places Robert Rummage, Greg Holste, and Jay Daniels in front of the pack.

William Ward runs effortlessly during the race, as his opponent from Ledford appears to be struggling to maintain his momentum.

As the cross country team began the season, their spirit was high. Not afraid to work, they steadily improved with daily three to six mile runs. The freshman-dominated team overcame their inexperience by working mainly on the techniques of cross country running.

Under the leadership of Coach Mike Scott and co-captains Jay Daniels and Robert Rummage, the team finished first in two out of five matches and placed second in two of those.

The expertise of Jay Daniels, Greg Holste, and Danny Gallimore was reflected in placement on the all county team.

"Inexperience, enthusiastic, and hard working" summed up the sixteen man cross country team.

Coach Fowler anxiously watches his team during the Ledford match, as Kim Tobin studies each move. Sherri Wood cheers from the sidelines, awaiting her turn on the floor.

Kathy Craver slams the ball over the net in the match against West Davidson. The efforts of Kathy, along with the other team members, brought East a victory and third place in the CCC.

Overall Record 10-9

On August 15 the varsity volleyball team began a rigid conditioning schedule. Based on running and the infamous "dive and roll" drills, the two hour practices prepared the team for its match of the season on August 28 against Thomasville. After suffering its initial loss, the team regrouped and gathered a 10-9 overall season, 7-7 in the CCC.

Behind team leader Kathy Craver, the girls enjoyed an atmosphere of enthusiasm and determination. Team effort was 100%. There was no one striking out to achieve stardom at the expense of the others. Unity — the key to any successful effort — described the 1984 team.

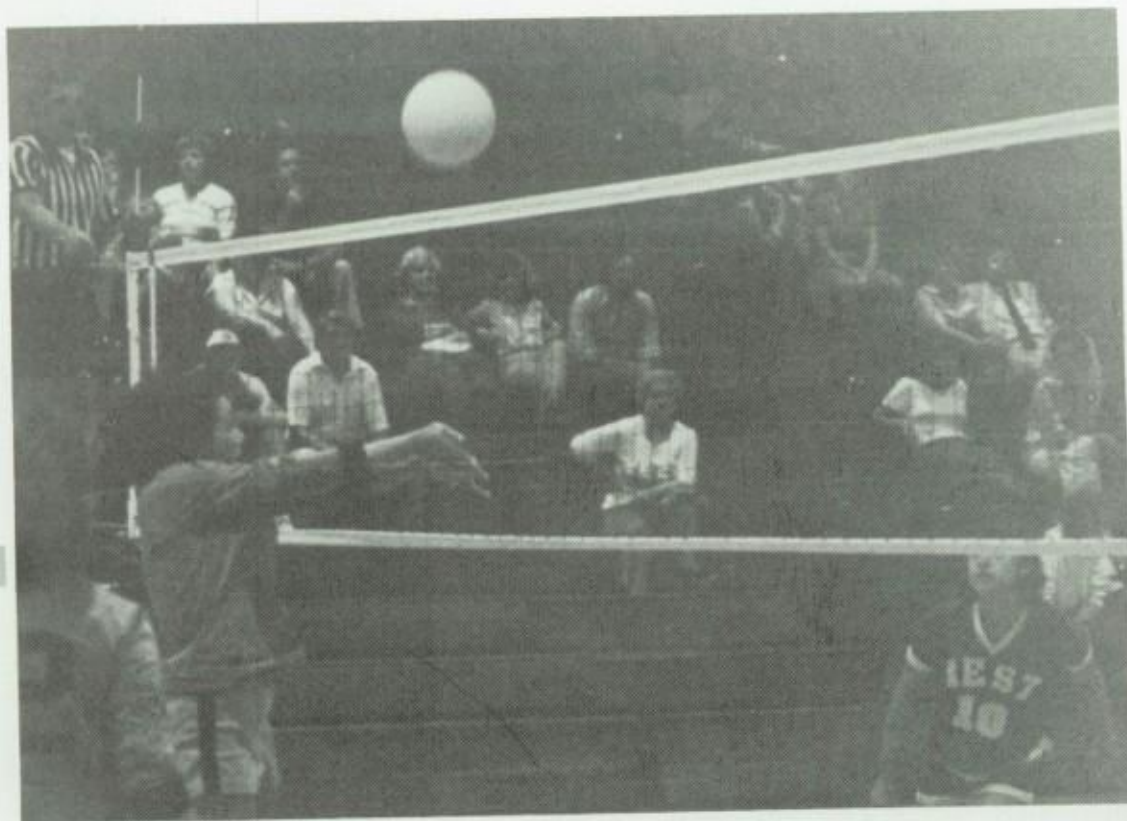

This effort was apparent as Coach Greg Fowler proposed a challenge. They needed two more victories to capture third place in the CCC behind leader S.W. Randolph and Ledford. They were not only hungry for a victory but also a nice steak dinner, courtesy of Coach Fowler. Denton fell easily; however, West was more obstinate. As the dust cleared, the Lady Eagles emerged victorious.

To cap off the successful season, the young, promising team placed two players on the all-conference team as honorable mentions — Susan Westmoreland and Kathy Craver.

Setting the ball for teammate Sherri Wood, Alane Holste gets under the ball to pop it up. This enables Sherri to position herself for the shot.

Mary Joyce Ferguson sends the ball over the net during the West Davidson game. The victory ensured a 4-2 conference record.

Christy Vipperman prepares to slam the ball to the opponent.

As the season began, the spirited, young J.V. squad worked on the fundamentals of the game. With only five sophomores, the freshman-dominated team realized that style would come on the varsity squad. What they needed was experience and skill.

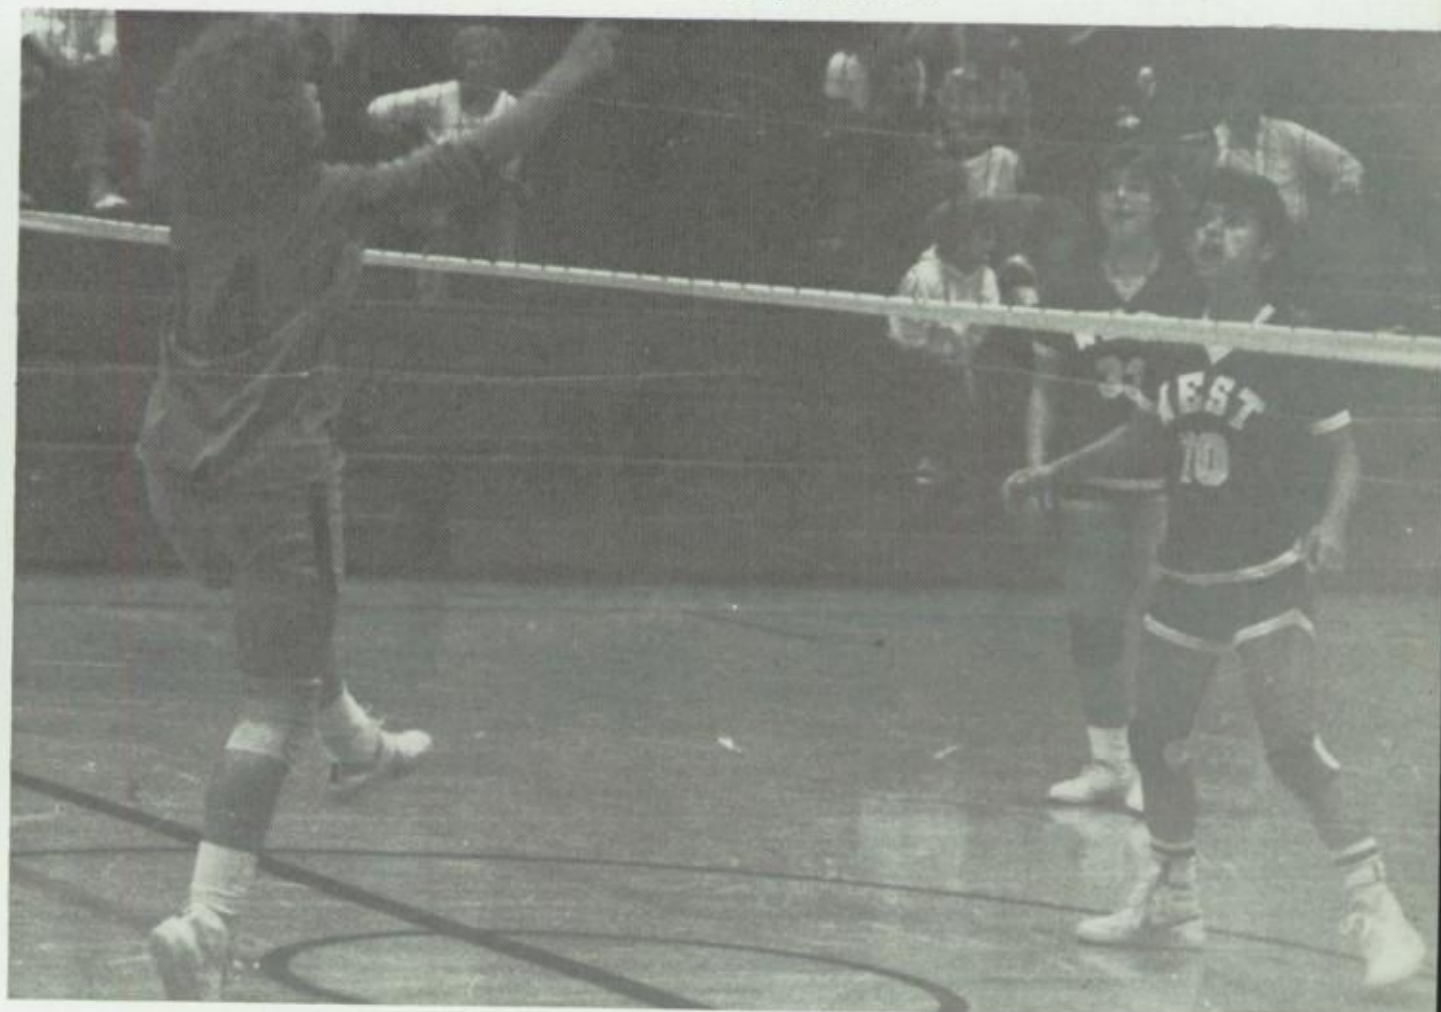

With this positive attitude, the sixteen member squad ran, stretched, and served to gain stamina. The hard work was rewarded with victory after victory. Even defeats did not dampen their spirit, for they saw it as a learning experience.

Coach Greg Fowler and Co-captains Melanie Doby and Wendi Fuller lead the team in several memorable games — one being the 15 minute victory over Denton and the other being the first team to defeat Ledford.

Top server Sandra Thompson helped the team gather a conference record of 4-2 and 5-4 overall. The key to their success, however, was unity. They worked harmoniously on the floor acting like a machine — a victory machine.

Sharon Greene sets the ball, as she anticipates assistance from teammates.

Richie Snyder shoots for two as the traffic in the lane moves in for the rebound.

The Cougars' Number 30 attempts to deflect the ball as it smoothly sails from Eric Gainey's hands to score a basket.

“We Are Burying ‘If,’ ‘Can’t,’ And ‘Impossible’” — Tricarico

The impact of Eric Gainey's sudden jumpshot catches the Cowboy's defense off guard as he shoots a two-pointer.

Perfect form with a flick from the wrist proves successful, as point guard Greg Holste jumps up for a goal against Southwest Guilford.

Dan Tricarico peps up the players during a time-out and raises their spirits, as they listen intently to the plans for the next few minutes.

Shooting for a year full of winning, Dan Tricarico held high expectations of success for the boy's varsity basketball team. Keeping positive attitudes, the players worked diligently during holidays and after school learning new plays for offense as well as defense. Even though they met with an unfair share of defeat, they kept up their tremendous performances during the games as well as practices.

As a whole, the entire squad worked together through sweat and tired muscles. As team captains Vince Mounts and Greg Holste lead their team with confidence, Norman Anderson, Eric Gainey, and Richie Snyder executed their experience as first string players accordingly. Steve Worley, Cleveland Reid, and Chuck Tanner also turned in top performances as they replaced their teammates and strived to make those plays work.

Overall, the entire team worked, sweated, and struggled to keep up the morale, success, and determination.

“We ‘Are’ Gonna Make Things Happen” — Beck

As Roger Walser makes his move for two points, Central's zone defense is stunned.

Scotty Avant lingers above the rest attempting to shoot the hoop.

Sweat dribbled off the J.V. basketball team members as the last few seconds of the clock wore off! Another game and another win! Although the team wasn't as successful as they had hoped, they struggled with positive attitudes and high hopes as their new leader, Coach Gary Beck, presented new ideas, plays, and methods. They worked diligently to improve their weaknesses and kept an edge on the strong points.

Team captains Darren Sullivan and Rusty Palmer led their teammates with confidence, as they performed with experience. Mickey Hulon, Bradley Burton, Gary Faulkner, and Scott Avant scored tremendously in the area of know-how and perserverance. They became the so-called “main string” although there was not a definite group of preferred players. Just as important were the other six teammates. Striving to do their best, the J.V. basketball team proved their determination to be the best at what they did.

Coach Cline sets up a strategy play at Central Davidson as members of the varsity team look on. This game held on Jan. 2 was a battle to the finish.

As the fall sports wound to an end, the gymnasium began to fill up with excitement. Girls and boys, ranging from the ages of 14 to 18, began working and practicing long, hard hours. What for? Well, to make the varsity basketball teams, of course.

This year's varsity girls basketball team consisted of ten hard-working ladies. Coached by Wanda Cline, the teammates concentrated on perfection through positive thinking. They pulled together through thick and thin, and fought back well in some close matches. They believed in the highest aspect of dedication, and these girls were full of devotion as well as enthusiasm.

Although they were mostly a young team, their leadership was found in Senior Sherri Wood and Junior Captain Kathy Craver. These two inspired their teammates in difficult battles and picked them up through long practices.

The team's season was not entirely flawless, but all agreed that the experience was one they would never forget.

Sherri Wood shows the leadership of a senior while in the huddle with the rest of her teammates.

While setting up the play, Kathy Craver and Christy Swaim work against Central's zone defense.

"One for all and all for one." That was the inspiration for this year's girls' basketball team. Coached by Greg Fowler and assisted by Mike Ragan, the J.V. girls practiced long and hard to reach their goals for the season. They developed the skills and composure so essential to basketball and began to learn about sportsmanship, thanks to the leadership of their captains Wendy Fuller and Susan Westmoreland.

East Davidson students and fans were extremely proud of the "Junior Ladies" for all of the dedication that they put forth. Throughout the season the girls made a team effort to put together a record of 5-14. Although the season was not completely victorious, the ladies learned to make good out of the bad. The team took pride in what they did and always strived to be the best that they could be. Coach Fowler commented that he could not be prouder of his girls. With a positive attitude and the willingness to improve, these girls prepared themselves well for the future as a member of the varsity team.

The wrestling team consisted of 38 dedicated young men. Under the guidance of first year coach Bobby House, Mark Connors, and Phil Kanoy, the team worked hard and strived for perfection. The team captains Keith Jarrett, Larry Williams, and Van Goins provided the leadership that is expected of seniors. Their maturity and self-confidence proved invaluable on numerous occasions.

Although all of the wrestlers practiced with winning in mind, Travis Myers seemed to give that little extra. The coaches and as well as spectators saw his improvement throughout the season.

The North Davidson Tournament proved successful to several wrestlers. Allen Loftin (98) and Keith Jarrett (112) finished second. Mike Smith (155) and Travis Myers (167) finished third, and Van Goins (HW) and Larry Williams (195) finished fourth in their respective weight classes.

Coach House commented that the wrestlers were young. This had its benefits, for the future looked brighter with a stronger and more experienced team.

As the 1984-1985 football season began, a very talented group of eight girls, along with two managers and a very enthusiastic sponsor, began weeks filled with energetic practice. This group known as the Eaglelettes were chosen by their sponsor Miss Betty Payne and a panel of qualified judges. After long, hard tryouts, the girls realized that being an Eaglelette required skill, dedication, cooperation, and knowledge of dancing.

Some of the new dances they learned were created by their chief, Kristi Pierce; however, other members had their chance to teach their favorite steps too. During the season, Miss Payne's camera became a familiar sight, as she captured the memories and dedication of her girls. The finale of their season came with the CCC Basketball tournament.

BAND

We Are Super
We Are Grand,
We're The Eagle
Marching Band!

After the drum solo "Dawg Grass," the band was allowed a breather. In order to add to the flair and excitement of their show, the band fell on the ground, waved, and smiled at the audience at Wake Forest on Nov. 3.

What other group of students would spend the last month of summer vacation sweating and marching up and down the parking lot other than the East Davidson Marching Eagles. Beginning with August 1, they attended daily practices at the school. The Eagles were known throughout the state as one of the best bands in their class, and to be the best it took nothing less than practice and hard work. This year's band, under the direction of Mr. Ed Kiefer and Drum Major Candy Jones, competed in a total of four competitions.

While at these competitions, the Eagles received numerous awards. At Central on Sept. 22 they received first place drum line, and an excellent rating. On Oct 13 at Ledford they received first place drum line and an excellent rating. At Forbush on Oct. 27 they received first place rifles, first place flags and first place drum line. They also received an excellent rating. At Wake Forest on Nov. 3 their final and best performance, they took first place drum line and first place band in their class.

After these four successful competitions, the Eagles honestly said they had done a great job in 1984. The music selections for the year included "Brazilia" with a solo performed by Brian Guffey and Randy Gooch. The percussion dazzled the audience with their special "Dawg Grass." The jazzy number which the whole band, along with the audience, enjoyed was "Sing, Sing, Sing." In this selection an ensemble played, as the band did a dance step to the music. The final song of the show was a Chicago medley of "Hard Habit to Break/Stay the Night." During this song once again Brian Guffey and Darin Ellis, as well as Steve Jones, dazzled the audience with their musical abilities. The Marching Eagles had reason to be proud for they seemed to have that certain bit of enthusiasm, jazz, and sparkle that it took to make this year a success.

And They Were Called The Music Machine

At the Forbush competition on Oct. 27, the band intrigues the audience with their performance of "Brazilia." This jazz song, like the other songs in the show, develops the energetic, vibrant atmosphere that the audience enjoys.

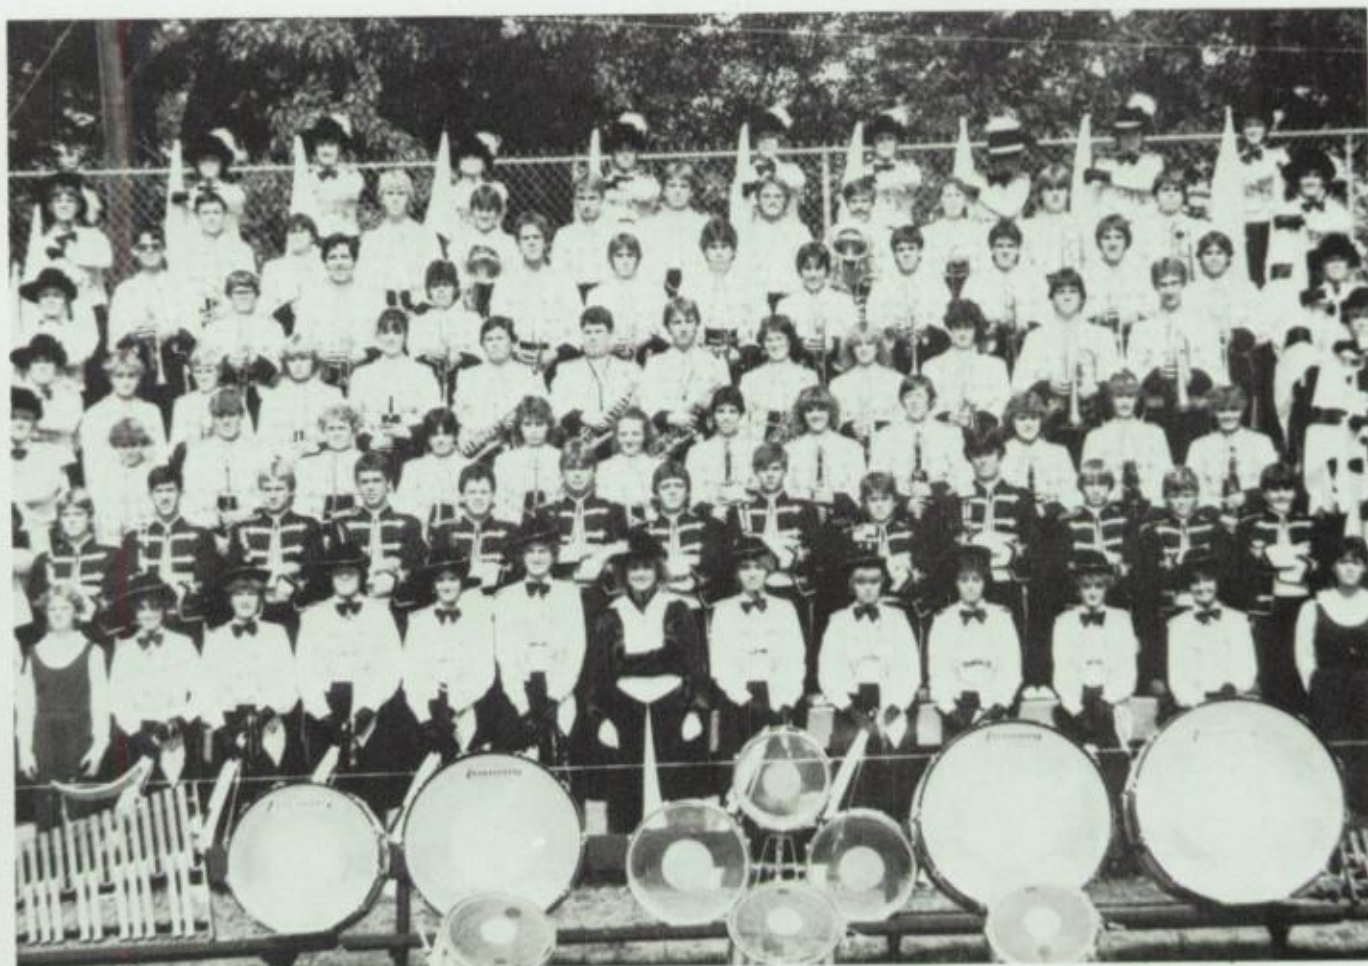

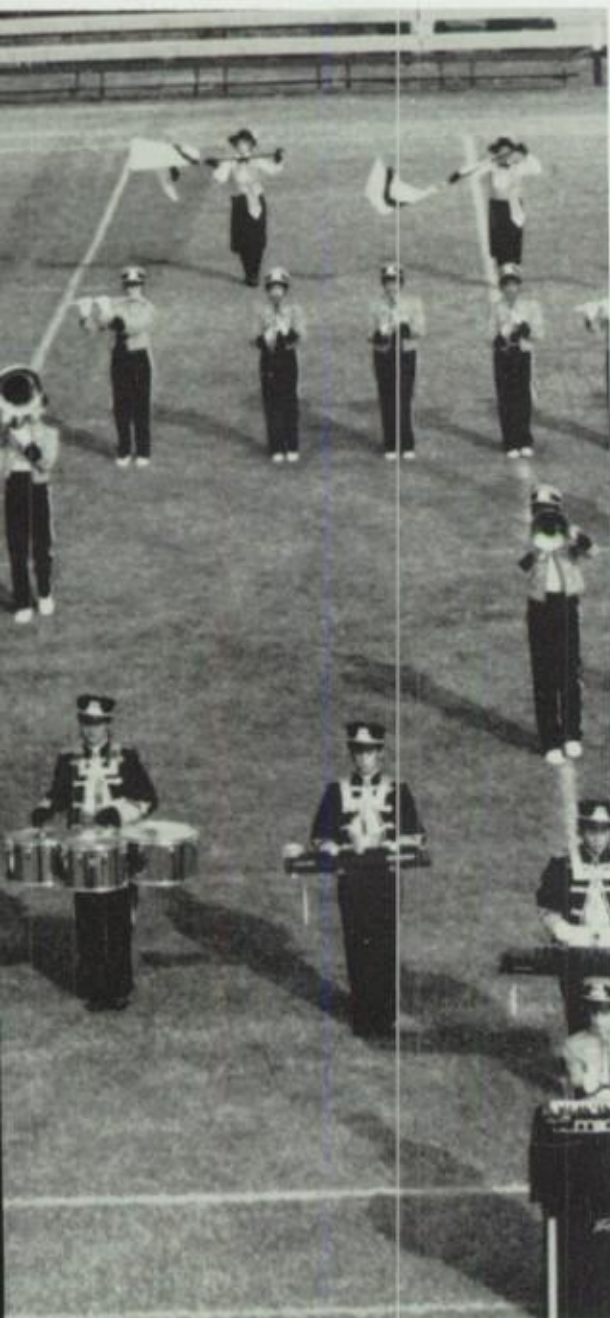

Candy Jones proudly walks forward at Forbush to receive the trophy for an excellent rating. The rifles, flags, and drum line also won first place awards on Oct. 24.

Kevin Hartman plays the role of a gruesome dead civilian at the annual Haunted Trail. Held at the home Don Craft, the event ran from Oct. 24-31 from 3:30-10:00p.m. It remained open until 11:00p.m. on Halloween night.

"Brazilia" is the attention-getter for the band's audience. With latin whistles and loud yells, the band begins their show for the homecoming crowd.

Joe Albertson takes a break after the Ledford performance. Joe and all the others worked hard to make this year a success. On Oct. 13 the band once again placed 3rd and received an excellent rating.

Before the Nov. 27th Forbush competition, the tensions and expectations mount. Tammy Parrish silently walks to join the other band members before walking onto the field of competition. In the end all worries were unnecessary, because the Eagles once again were victorious with an excellent rating.

While at Ledford's competition, the drum line again performed with great pride as they received one of their four first place trophies on Oct. 13.

Hal Usher watches the drum major for directions as he plays his solo during the Chicago medley. The performance brought applause from the homecoming crowd.

Eric Medlin plays the role of a curious little boy who loses his mother and wanders into a graveyard. Here, he finds the tomb of Norman Bates, psychotic killer, and frightens the visitors of the Haunted Trail as he investigates his findings.

Wendi Byerly gets silly in order to overcome the tensions of the Wake Forest competition on November 3.

The ensemble of first chair players perform a special jazz section during "Sing, Sing, Sing" at Ledford. The special few included Shane Hicks, Steve Jones, Jennifer Terrell, Randy Gooch, Darin Ellis, and Brian Guffey.

Once again the band successfully survives the dangerous feat of running through the colorguard. This added to the excitement of the Central ballgame on Sept. 21.

Mark Hannah looks exhausted after a long hard day at competition. However, this work paid off. While at Wake Forest on Nov. 3, the band brought home first place.

Band Boosters are not the only followers of the band. Many of the members like Tonya Proctor have avid fans that follow them to every performance. One example is the Oct. 27 performance at Forbush.

The flag squad tosses their flags high into the air to the drum solo of "Dawg Grass," as the band bravely runs through them.

Wendi Byerly and Tammy Hill march solemnly onto the field at the competition in Forbush.

Twenty-eight girls tried out for a position on the squad by doing a routine to "Beat It." Tryouts lasted from March 26 through May 1. During these four weeks the girls learned to march, twirl and stand as a proud Eagle. The twenty lucky girls who were chosen to be on the award-winning Eagle flag squad felt relieved as their names were announced. Chief Tina Byerly and Co-chief Amy Stanley attended a camp at the home of their sponsor Mrs. Joselyn Smith. After designing the new marching formations, they taught the squad. This meant long afternoon practices in the heat of the summer and after school practices in early fall.

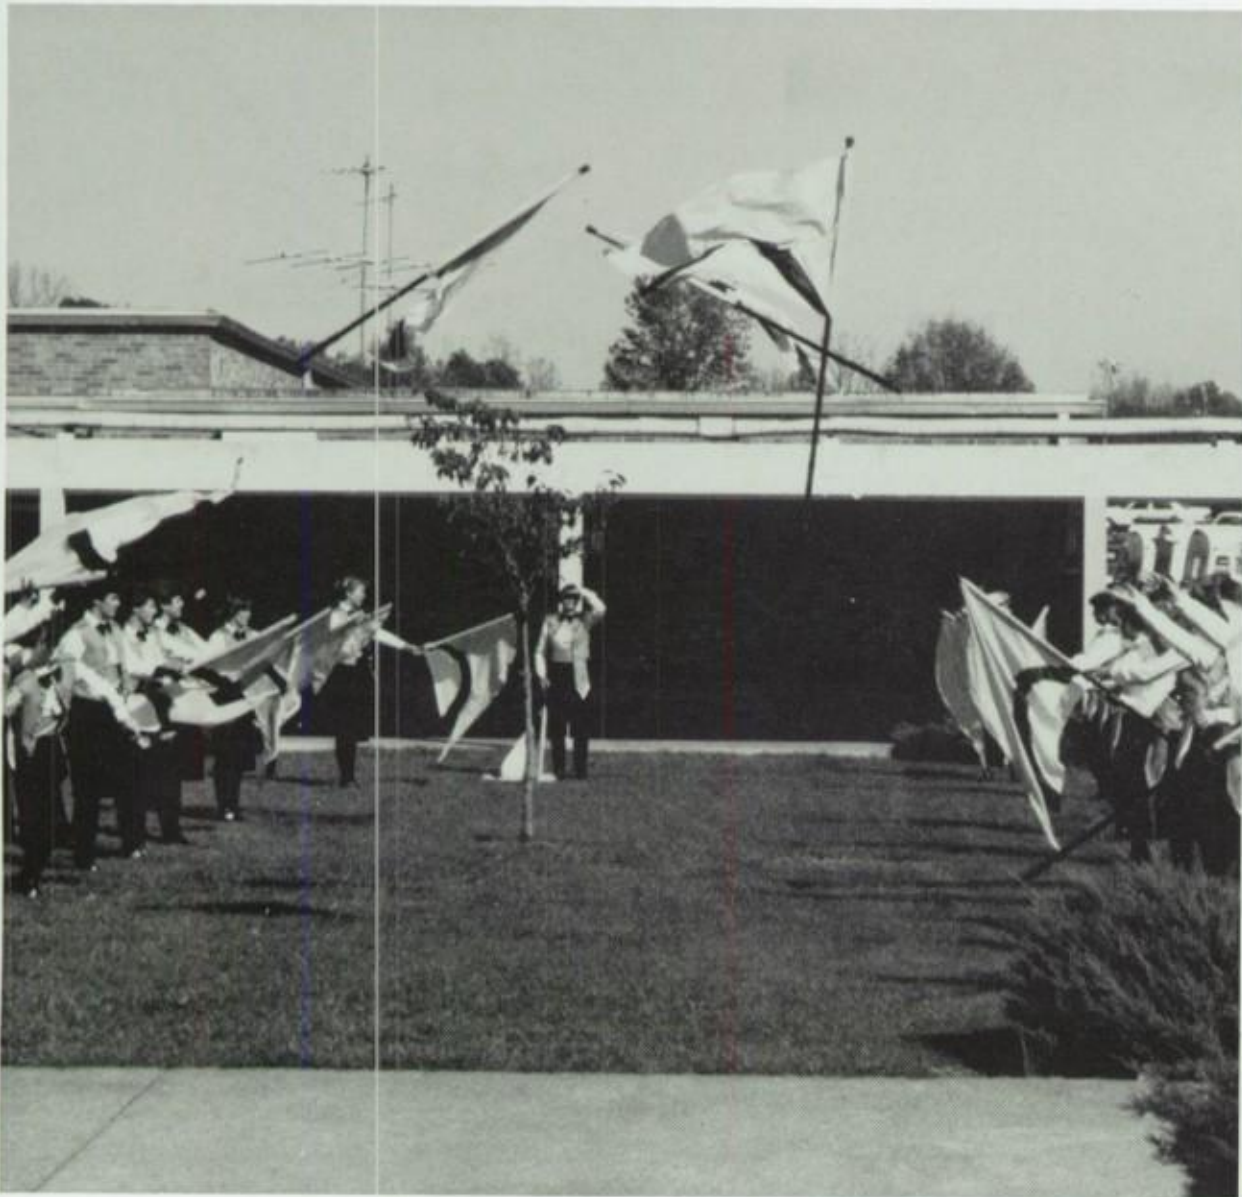

This paid off as they received first place at Forbush and second place at Wake Forest.

Chief Tressi Suggs and Co-chief Joan Fritts share the thrill of victory after a first place performance at Forbush.

Candy Briles accepts a little extra help before a competition to get her rifle ready for action.

Twelve girls tried out to be part of the 1984 Rifle Squad. These girls, after four weeks of tryouts, performed a routine to the song "Eye of The Tiger."

Only ten of these girls made the squad and they worked together and strived for perfection. They received first place awards at Forbush and second place awards at Wake Forest. The squad's chief and co-chief, Tressi Suggs and Joan Fritts, worked with Sponsor Mrs. Joselyn Smith to create the best rifle squad possible.

"We've Got The Beat"

As marching season came to a close, band members exchanged their gold attired uniforms for a more informal type. Many of the band members were interested in exposing themselves to a different kind of music which is known as improvisation.

Early in the season, the students met after school and tried out for parts in the band. Mr. Kiefer, jazz band director who also arranged much of the music they played, chose the best instrumentalists for the parts. The band met as a group only once a week and was responsible for working independently on its music. The band played many types of jazz songs such as old jazz, big band, and rock jazz. Not only did the jazz band perform at its own concert on December 13, but it also showed its talent at many civic clubs as well as the area elementary and junior high schools. The band was invited to perform at the North Carolina Arts Festival in Raleigh. Much hard work and many long hours were put forth by the members of the band. Because of this dedication, the group developed into a very large and creative jazz band.

The pep band played an important part in the athletic organization. It added that little extra excitement at the pep rallies and basketball games. Without the pep band marching through the halls and echoing the cheerleaders, East Davidson would be just another ordinary school. Its spirit and enthusiasm truly boosted the excitement of the Eagle fans and the students.

Todd Byerly, Brent Everhart, Steve Hicks, and Barbara Brinius play their trumpets to the tune of "You Too."

Sing, Sing, Sing

During the school day, one might have encountered a very pleasing sound to the ear. These musical tunes were most likely coming from the chorus class which met everyday fourth period in the auditorium. Most students signed up for the elective class simply because they loved to sing. Each year the chorus class grew more and more. There were times when students who did not receive the class came in during their lunch period and practiced with the group. The students who did spend their lunch period with the class were welcome to perform with them at their concerts and outings.

The group performed many seasonal and pop songs at their yearly band concert on December 13. Thirty-five students were involved in the chorus part of the concert. These students, instructed by Mr. Ed Kiefer, were a very spirited group. This spirit was brought out in the music they sang.

"Where's the Cougars?" rings from the Junior-Senior Science Club's float.

The purpose of the Junior-Senior Science Club was to unite students who were interested in one of the many science fields. The club elected officers at their first club meeting. They selected Carol Hughes as president, Erik Kelly as vice-president, Amy Sparks as secretary, and Terri Rabon as treasurer.

The club took a field trip on December 6 to the Discovery Place in Charlotte. They participated in homecoming by entering a float called "Where's the Cougars?" The club had many speakers throughout the year dealing with different fields of science. One of the most interesting was a display of birds on Dec. 20. Mr. Cochran from Carolina Raptor Center explained how to help the endangered species. They participated in the science fair in the spring.

The Freshman-Sophomore Science Club wins third place for their homecoming float "Killed and Mounted."

The Freshman-Sophomore Science Club consisted of approximately eighty active members. Sponsored by Mrs. Charlsie Atwood, they met every first Thursday with science on their minds. Each month they had special activities during the club meetings. One guest speaker was Sharon Harrison, who spoke about her "miracle baby." During December, they had a Christmas planning period in which they made plans for the new year. In January, Dr. Dungar, a retired engineer, came to talk about engineering courses in college. They helped sponsor a chicken pickin' and hoped to give a large scholarship at the end of the year. The Freshman-Sophomore Science Club officers were President — Kim Tobin, Secretary — Wendy Fuller, Vice President — Sean Varner, and Treasurer — Mark Surratt.

Working To Entertain

The 1984-85 Drama Club met every third Thursday of the month. They planned to participate in many school activities throughout the year. Club sponsors Debbie Chance and Pam Williamson broke the club up into four smaller groups. Each group was assigned a different activity dealing with drama. Each individual group tried to come up with creative and interesting ideas. As a climax, each presented its production.

The Krispy Kreme Doughnut was familiar sight for Jr.-Sr. Steering Committee members.

Drama Club members listen attentively to their guest speakers from the Chair City Players during club meetings.

The Junior-Senior Steering Committee met on every first Thursday of the month. In order to be a member of this club, one had to be a member of the Junior Class with an overall average of a C. Each member had to have four teacher recommendations filled out, and each person wrote a paper on why he or she would like to be a member of the Jr.-Sr. Steering Committee.

The purpose of the club was to make all the necessary arrangements dealing with the Jr.-Sr. Prom. On December 4, the club traveled to Charlotte to listen to ten bands and D.J.'s for the prom. They also sponsored three doughnut sales in which all juniors who wanted to raise money to attend the prom sold thirty boxes. Club members selected the date and place of the prom and chose sophomore attendants. Jr.-Sr. Steering Committee members also decorated the site of the prom.

Working Hands And Working Minds

Tina Russo, Mary Phillips, and Tammy Turner find Art Club a combination of working, learning, and relaxing.

The Arts and Crafts Club was designed to introduce "mini" crafts, which could be completed in one class period by the art student. The club also helped raise funds for the art department. The Seventeen member club designed a homecoming float which captured second place. The officers were President — Mary Phillips, Vice-President — Karen Byerly, Secretary — Vice-President — Karen Byerly, Secretary — Lisa Sanderson, Treasurer — Cathy Shuler.

Let's Mingle Bilingual!!

The French Club held a sense of pride. The club did many things such as having guest speakers, interesting films, and sing in French. They also celebrated their annual Mardi-Gras where they had many delicious French dishes. The French Club also participated in May Day and sponsored "Deck the Halls" at Christmas. On St. Patrick's Day, the club held its annual party for the residents at Davidson Nursing Home. The sixty-eight member club sponsored by Mrs. Reida Snyder was open to all classes. Their officers were President — Kim Kepley, Vice-President — Stephanie Bell, Secretary — Kim Barlow, Treasurer — Rusty Palmer, and French Delicacy Chairperson — Jennifer Terrell.

French Club members work diligently in groups to perfect their French projects.

The Spanish Club was very active club in 1985. During the Christmas season, they had a Christmas party and also participated in "Deck in the Halls" by decorating the commons area with the Christmas spirit. They had many different guest speakers during their club meetings. One of the many speakers was Ken Stewart, an alumni of East who now is a major in Spanish. Guided by their advisor Miss Susan Clark, the club also sponsored a dance in February and attended the Foreign Language Festival at Davidson County Community College in the spring. Their officers were President — Jeff Ward, Vice-President — Amy Stanley, Secretary — Karen Shaw, and Treasurer — Sherry Cline.

Jeff Ward, President of the Spanish Club, tells in his very humorous way that it is time for the next report to be stated.

Todd Byerly, Jane Whitley, and Amy Sprinkle listen and laugh at the upcoming events of the club during a Thursday meeting in Mrs. Clark's room.

Building Body And Spirit

The Monogram Club's purpose was to unite all juniors and seniors who had lettered in at least one varsity sport. They gave letter jackets to all of the proud members who received their varsity letter. The club sponsored the Powder-Puff football game this year and also sponsored May Day. Much of their success was the result of their advisors Wanda Cline, Bill Davis, and Dawn Jones.

This year the Monogram Club not only had officers but also had two executive committees consisting of three juniors and three seniors. These members took care of the major business of the club. The officers of the club were President — Randy Norris, Vice-President — Clifton Hicks, Secretary — Dawn Hill, Treasurer — Coy Blair, and Reporter — Amy Sparks. The junior committee consisted of Ginny Norris, Bobby Byerly, and Greg Holste. The senior committee consisted of Dawn Hill, Larry Williams, and Sabrina Todd.

Industrial Leaders

VICA T & L, the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America, met every third Thursday club meeting of the month. The club elected officers at their first club meeting. They were President — John Buchner, Vice-President — Tony Hunt, Secretary — Christy Albright, Treasurer — Cindy Evans. These officers, with the help of their advisor Hulin Brown, worked together to conduct business and plan activities. During the spring, the club sponsored a furniture display in the student commons area.

The Industrial Cooperative Training Club's purpose was to give more students the chance at leadership, to improve their self-image, and to improve the total person. At their second club meeting, they selected the following people as officers: Kim Barlow — President, Brady Jenkins — Vice-President, Rodney Pierce — Treasurer, and Aaron Loftin — Secretary.

Their activities were numerous. The club worked with the needy during the Christmas season. They were also involved in the Davidson County Vocational Educational Association, D.C.-VECA. Each year officers were elected countywide. This year East held the office of Vice-President. Angie Davis took the honors as the representative. She served her post for one year, and next year she will run for the office of president.

Looking Toward The Future

A member of Home Economics Club, Violet Manns worked on her decorating skills.

Sandy Moore and Kristy King enjoyed decorating cupcakes in FHA.

With the help of their diligent advisors, Mrs. Janet Atwood and Mrs. Karen Harris, the Future Homemakers of America sponsored many activities throughout the school year. During their club meetings they had guest speakers who dealt with the home economics program. At the December meeting, a representative from Duke Power came to speak about her job. The club members traveled to Old Salem at Christmas to be entertained at a very elegant candlelight tea. During one meeting, Mrs. Myra Rogers led the club in aerobic exercises.

The FHA also sponsored a mother/daughter banquet in the spring and a booth at May Day. The officers were Kelly Payne — President, Sandi Surratt — Vice-President, Vanessa Merrill — Secretary/Treasurer, and Reporter — Laura Myers.

Sponsored by Mrs. Sherry Litwin, The Robert Nations Club consisted of thirteen members. They elected Tracy Strickland as President, David Hughes as Vice-President, and Mike Kepley as Secretary/Treasurer. They took a field trip on December 6 to Discovery Place in Charlotte. For Christmas, the Robert Nations Club visited Kabuto's, a Japanese steak house in Greensboro. They also sponsored a booth at May Day.

Reading Ability And Responsibility

The Bus Drivers Club took the title of the most responsible club at East. They made sure all of the bus students arrived at school and home safely. The bus drivers not only drove school buses; they were the athletes' only means of transportation to and from the ballgames. The club also sponsored a M & M candy sale to raise money. They gave the students a chance to get back at their favorite teacher by sponsoring the annual Dunking Booth at May Day.

Cheryl Norris and Mr. Hulin Brown get together and chat before they "move 'em out."

Library assistants Annette McMillian and Andy Plummer help Jeff Ward research an assignment.

The Library Club started off the year by electing officers. Annette McMillan was elected President, Jeff Childress — Vice-President, Annette Briles — Secretary, Tressi Suggs — Treasurer, and Carl Christiansen — Reporter. The club presented a float in the homecoming parade entitled "Can the Cougars" which took first place. They sold $1,800 worth of books and accessories at the Book Fair.

At Christmas, the Library Club bought gifts for needy children. While the Beta Club and Student Council held a party for the older children, the Library Club was taking gifts around to the younger ones at home. They also sponsored the crafts fair and the Paperback Trade Fair which was held in the spring.

STRIVING FOR CAREERS

Back row: Angela Williams, Mrs. Gracie Payne, Creath Jarrell, Debbie Lambeth, Jeanna Little, Casa Eaton, Amy Beck, Beth Harris, Tina Stilwell, Angie Stanley, Mrs. Helen Wilson.

The FBLA Nov. 15 club meeting is highlighted by a guest speaker, Mr. R.D. Taylor, who speaks on the tasks of an accountant and various jobs in the accounting field.

The FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America) strove to increase interest in business occupations and develop professional leadership. They had guest speakers from various businesses in the area to help them learn about the free enterprise system and how new technology was being used at his or her place of business. For example, Mary Jane Cody, President of Cato Transit, spoke to the students about jobs in a nationwide corporation. R.D. Taylor also talked about the tasks and rewards of the accountant world.

The FBLA officers were President — Missy Coppinger, Vice-President — Angie Stanley, Secretary — Jane Welborn, Treasurer — Laura Myers, and Reporter — Annette Briles. The club officers were helped tremendously by their sponsors Mrs. Helen Wilson and Mrs. Grace Payne.

Giving A Little Extra

The Beta Club began with their annual induction ceremony where all new members were honored and received into the club. Presiding in the ceremony were the officers — President — Tracey Leonard, Vice-President — Kristi Pierce, Secretary — Becky Scarboro, Treasurer — Amy Stanley, and Reporter — Tina Byerly. The members worked diligently to host a Christmas party for the underprivileged children of the community. They delighted the children with gifts and, of course, Santa Claus.

On March 15 & 16, club members piled on a van and attended the Beta Club State Convention held in Greensboro. There they learned more about the purpose of Beta Club and discovered interesting ideas. They also recognized National Beta Club Week which honored all Beta Club members in a special way. The club sponsored the talent show where students received the chance to show what they do best. The Beta Club also gave a $500 scholarship to a well-deserving senior.

During induction week, new Beta members had to suffer through harassment about their "ears" and say the Beta pledge in some strange places and positions. One day they even had to dress as fictional and non-fictional characters.

A Pickin' And A Playin'

The Pickin' and Grinnin' Club met every first club meeting of the month. The main purpose of the club was to unite some of the people of the school who played musical instruments. Under the direction of their advisor Mr. Hulin Brown, they played bluegrass and rock music. The group consisted of two lead guitarists, one bass, one drummer, and four acoustic guitarists. They also participated in May Day and the talent show by playing some of their favorite songs.

PICKIN' & GRINNIN' CLUB Mr. Hulin Brown, Troy Cooley, Derek Medlin, Glen Carroll, Tony Hunt, Tommy Lloyd, Jimmy Lambeth.

THE WORLD OF 1984

Nationally, the year of 1984 was a time of new experiences and adventures. The biggest news of '84 was the elections and the Olympics. President Ronald Reagan once again returned to the White House for another four years with his vice-president, George Bush. The election brought a first in the history of America and politics. The first lady ever to become a candidate for vice-president was Geraldine Ferraro who ran with Walter Mondale.

During the summer, all eyes focused on the United States for two weeks as the world's best athletes participated in the 23rd Summer Olympic Games. Numerous records were broken and medals were won. However, the Americans dominated the games and came away the most successful of all. Another first came in space and the world of aeronautics. Sally Ride became the first American woman to ride into space while on the Space Shuttle Challenger.

Suffering was a big factor in 1984. The most memorable of all threats to peace occurred in Lebanon, as the country was fiercely bombed and attacked. The weather played tricks on the U.S. as Hurricane Diana struck the American coast with the force of a ball and chain. Many died and thousands were injured before Diana finished her course.

The world was invaded by a revived young man and his brothers. Michael Jackson and The Jacksons took the world by storm. Through their Victory Tour, they became known as having the most successful of all musical tours. Along with the Jacksons, Prince introduced his new sound with the explosion of his box office hit Purple Rain and the soundtrack.

President Ronald Reagan gestures while he talks to his supporters on the South Lawn of the White House. Reagan sets out on a final 10-state campaign trek from coast to coast. On November 3rd he took the Presidency by a record landslide.

Democratic vice-presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro gives the thumbs up sign to the crowd after speaking at a rally from the steps of Garden City Hall in Camden, N.J. This was only a small portion of her search for victory.

The Chess and Backgammon Club grew amazingly in its three years of existence. It boasted forty members this year. The students in the club gathered every third Thursday of the month and played chess or backgammon. The students organized many tournaments within the club itself. Mr. Tricarico, advisor of the club, often participated in the club tournaments.

During the Chess and Backgammon Club meeting, Max Gordon excitingly awaits to see if Brian Guffey or James Creech will be his next opponent.

Student Leaders Building Our World

The voice of the students at East Davidson was the Student Council. The students chose an executive board consisting of President — Stephanie Bell, Vice-President — Craig Black, Secretary — Tammy Foley, Treasurer — Kim Kepley, and Recorder — Candy Briles. Each homeroom had a representative and an alternate. Class presidents were also members of Student Council.

Student Council was the most active club at East. Sponsored by Myra Rogers, they held a halloween masquerade party on October 21. Three delegates, Stephanie Bell, Craig Black, and Tammy Foley, attended a NCASC convention in Raleigh on November 10, 11, and 12. Student Council also helped sponsor a Christmas party for the underprivileged children on December 18. Other activities included a Christmas dance December 20, a canned food drive for the Salvation Army from November 26-December 7, a blood drive, and a MORP dance. Student Council also awarded two $500 scholarships to two worthy seniors.

Old and young alike turn out on Nov. 6 for the 1984 elections.

New I-85 plays a major role in the lives of each student and member of the community. The Lake Rd. Exit 102 was the most used exit for the students of East.

Locally, like in the nation, the big news was the elections. However, in North Carolina the presidential elections were overshadowed by the nationally recognized N.C. Senate race between Jim Hunt and Jesse Helms. Through a long and fierce battle, Helms remained as the victor of all.

The biggest development that faced the whole community was the construction and opening of the new Interstate 85. This new interchange affected the lives of many and provided better access to the school as well as to other cities.

Thomasville Furniture celebrated over 75 years of service to the community through an emphasis of Quality Performance and continued service. One event of the year was the found gas leak at the Mobil Gas Station in High Point. The gas leaked into Willard's Food Mart.

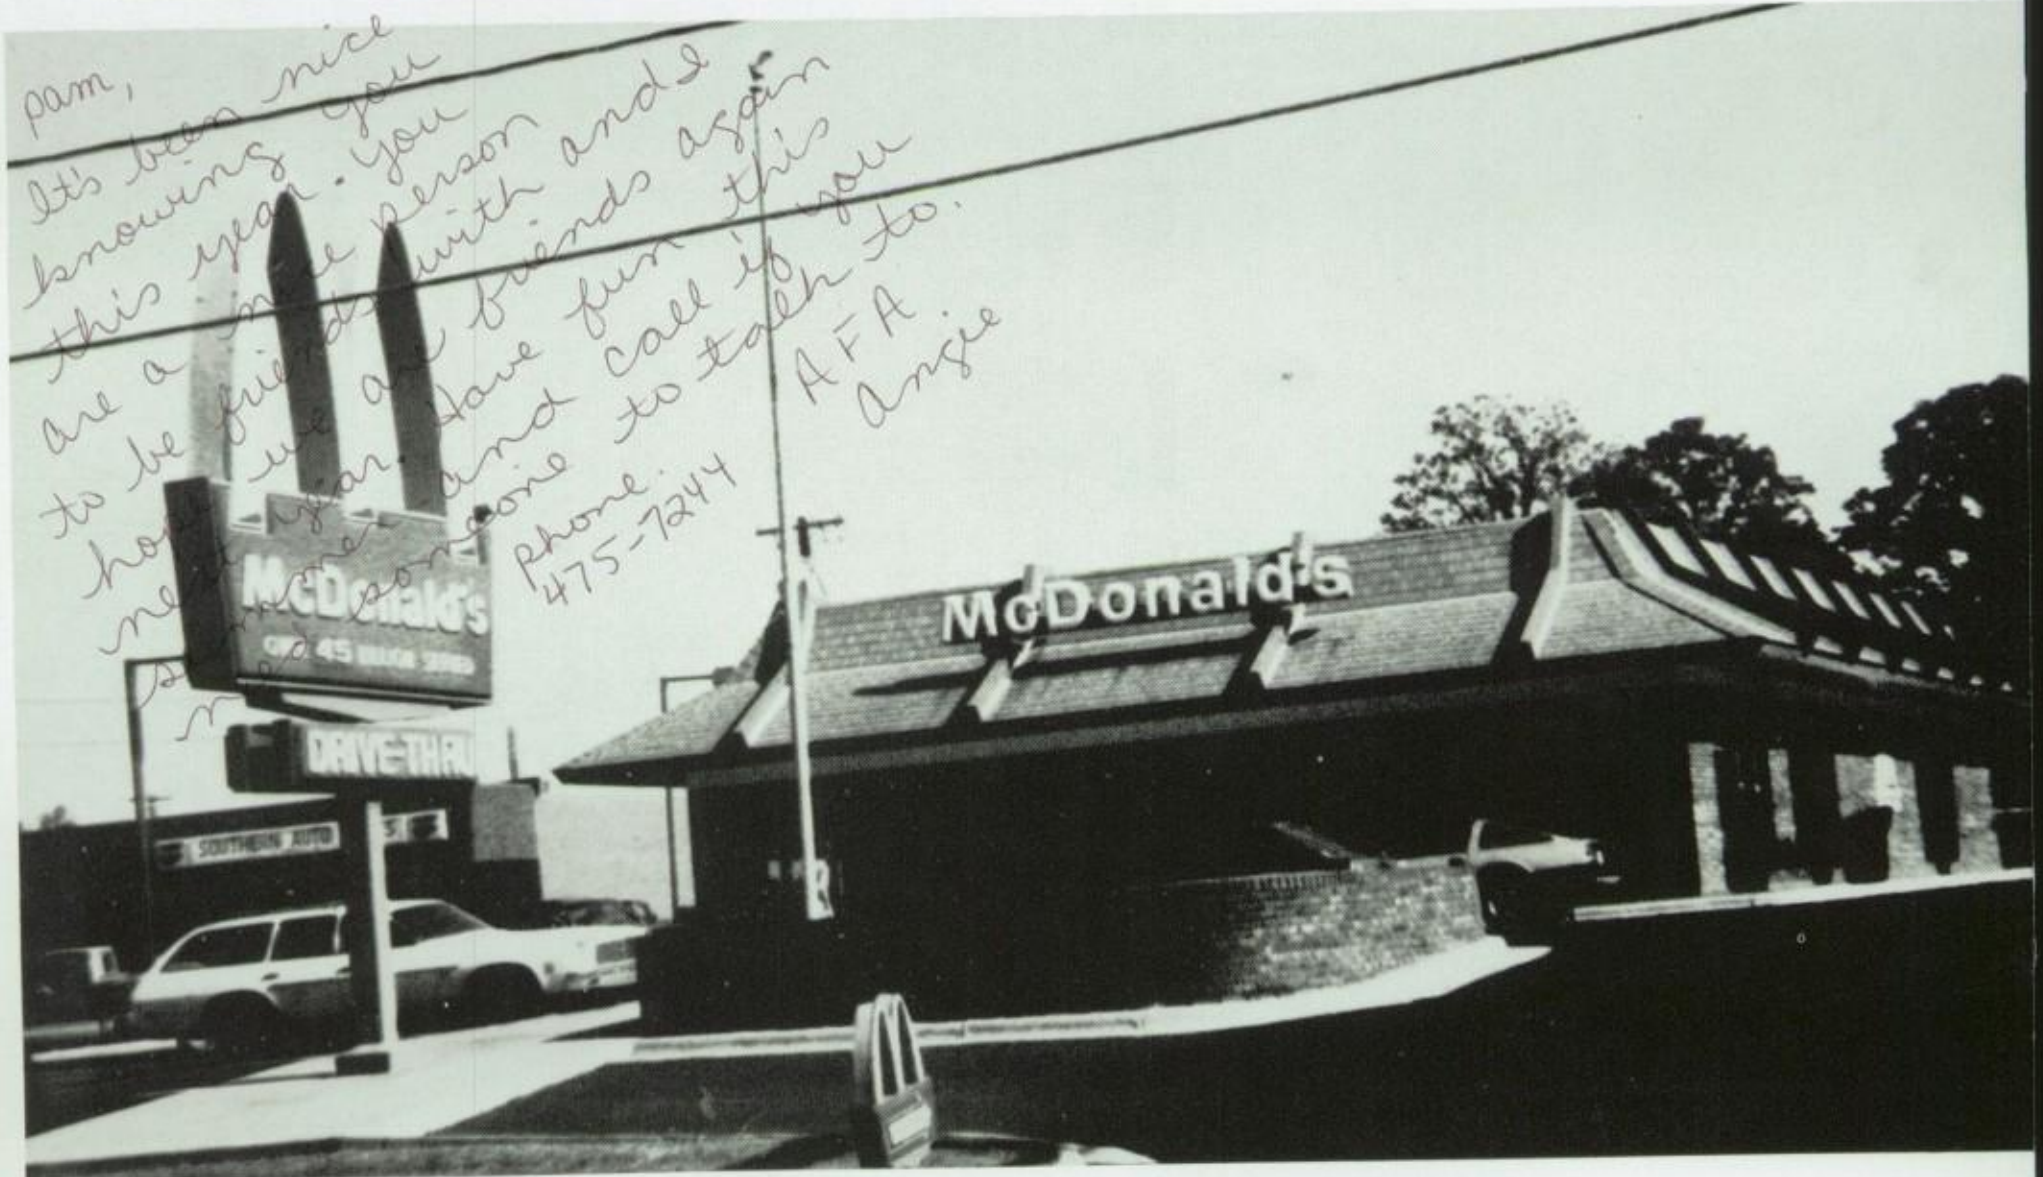

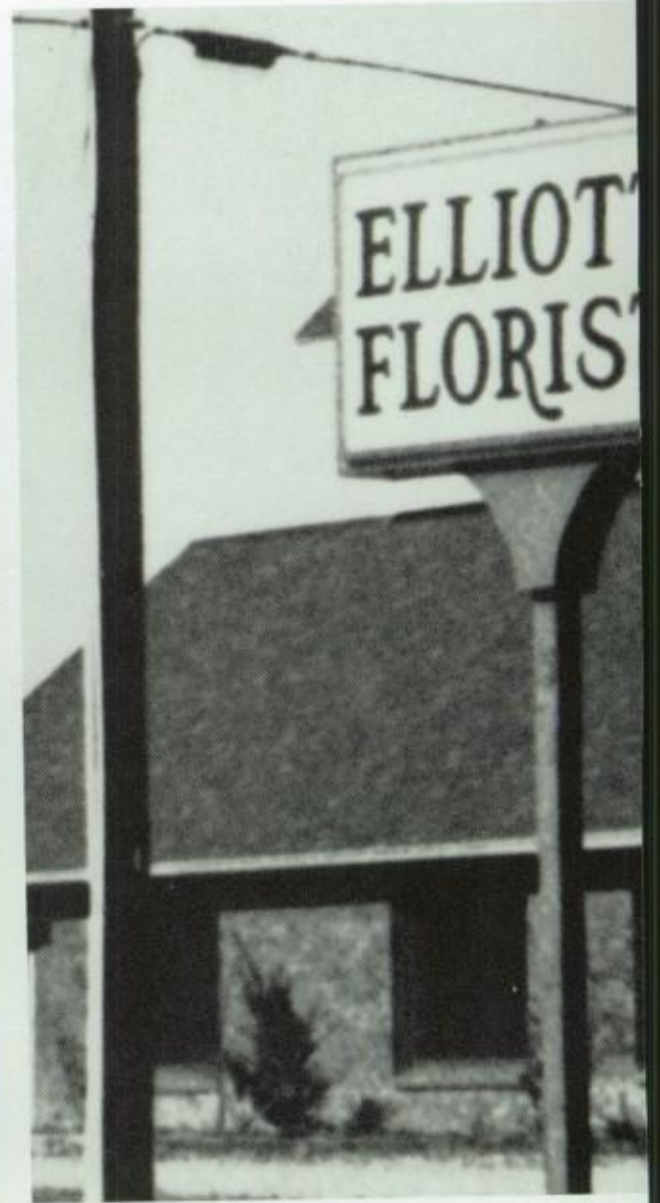

The school held its annual candy sale which proved to be very successful. Drawings were held to give away prizes. The winners included Mr. Fowler — High Homeroom, Dee White — first place (large jam-box), Michael Huffman — second place (radio), Mickey Ward — $100 drawing, Wade Foley — Moped, and Debbie Gammons — car. Sabrina Todd was awarded Teenager of the Year by the Optimist Club. Brian Guffey was named as a member of the All-District Band. The Women's Club Art and Crafts Festival winners were Jennifer Batson, first place in needlepoint and latchhook; Michael McKinney, first place in yarn drawing; Glenn Carroll, second place in weaving; Karen Shaw, first and second place in sewing; and Nancy Adams, second place in weaving.

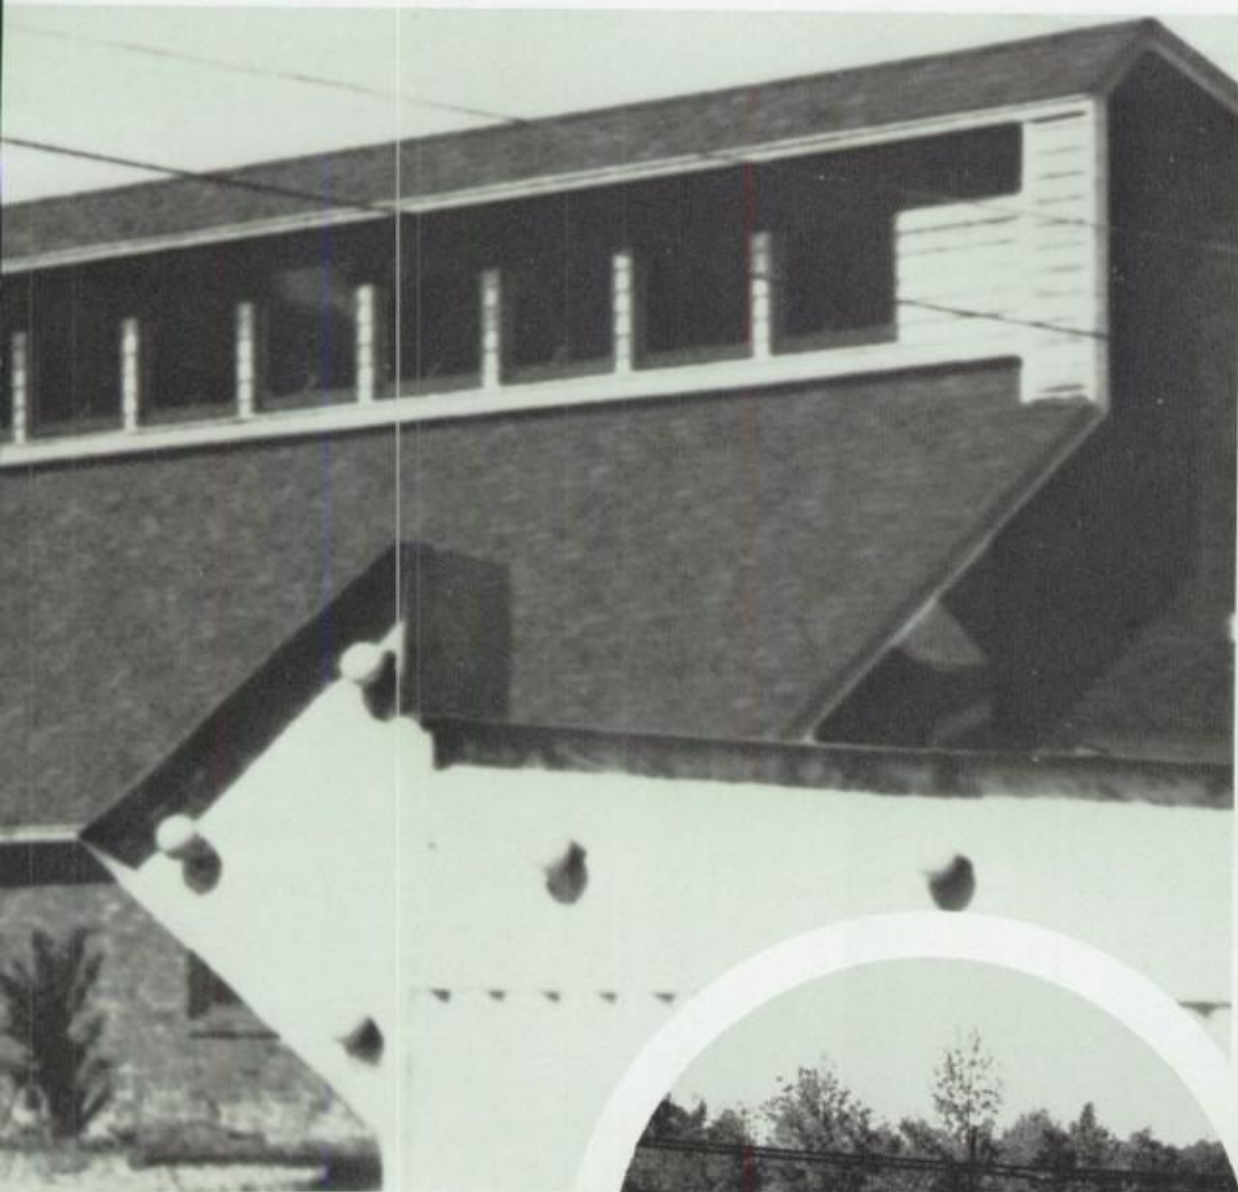

Each plant of Thomasville Furniture, Inc., was presented with a Quality Performance Flag to signify and remind the workers and patrons of the great service the major employer of the community provides.

Presenting The "Classics"

The cover of the 1985 yearbook was designed with a traditional golden eagle in the corner. The staff sold over $5,000.00 worth of ads and $3,300.00 worth of Tom-Wat to provide students with forty pages of full color. The 1985 Claw was the first yearbook at East ever to have color ads. The staff also for the first time sponsored a May Day Dance.

The Claw Staff wants to thank each student that bought the book, those who submitted photos to the staff, and a big thanks to Reida Snyder for taking pictures, drawing layouts, and keeping her cool. The staff would also like to thank all teachers for allowing classes to be interrupted for pictures and staff work.

The staff sincerely hopes the theme "CLASSIC" shows the traditions of the school and the pride behind them. The traditions go on as classics, yet each year is unique because of you — the students!

An editor's job is not confined to just making assignments. She must proofread copy and check layout designs, oversee photo assignments, supervise ad and subscription sales, act as a mediator for the staff, and make sure all deadlines are met. Sabrina Todd finds this position a real challenge.

Everlasting Memories

Class

Pam,

Well, another school year has almost ended (Thank God!) and even a better year of friendship has gone by. It's now been 6 years since we first met and we're still best friends. Sure we've had our ups and downs but we always seem to work things out and remain on top. I'd like to start out by thanking you for everything you've done for me and for being there when I needed a true friend to talk to. No one else has seemed to stick by me but you always have. I know it's not that easy to put up with but you've seemed to take that challenge and succeed. Just think 2 years of school left, then we're on to bigger and better things. I've shared a great deal together especially this past year. I've had a lot of great times to look back on and even better times planned. I'm really glad you met Michael and I know you love him very much. He seems to be a great guy and I know he's taking good care of you. Tell him not to worry about other guys because you've got him so why should you need anyone else. Well it's hard to believe it won't be long until we're "16" and neither of us can wait but it looks like we're going to. Well I'll close with the best 6 years of friendship & memories. Good luck Always!

Love ya "Best
Karen's friends forever"

"PUTTIN' ON THE RITZ"

The theme to the '84-'85 Junior/Senior Prom held true — "Puttin' on the Ritz." All the glitter and elegance of the "Roaring 20's" came to life on March 29. The prom was held at the Top of the Mart Restaurant in High Point. The juniors and seniors were entertained by the band "Thin Men," whose attire fit perfectly into the theme. The sophomore attendants portrayed the people of the 20's and gave everyone a glimpse of the Charleston. The female attendants dressed as "Flappers," while the male attendants illustrated the common gangster of the prohibition era.

The Junior/Senior Steering Committee planned and worked on decorations for months before the "big" day. As the other students enjoyed a vacation because of a teacher workday, the steering committee spent the morning preparing for the evening's event. The junior homeroom advisors were Janice Barber, Sherry Litwin, Myra Rogers, Susan Clark, Danny Ward, and Dan Tricarico. All the industrious work and effort put forth by this group paid off with an elegant night of fun at the Junior-Senior Prom.

Tammy Hill, Sherri Cline, Joan Fritts, and Paula Daniels relax under the gazebo after putting the final touches on the decorations.

Ginny Norris and Angie Hughes score another victory for the juniors in the three-legged race.

During May Day, the highlight of the activities is the tug-of-war between the classes. Russ Hallman and Stephanie Bell work hard to try to win the competition for the seniors. They successfully came through with a victory.

At the annual presentation, Amy Sparks and Amy Sprinkle have the honor of presenting the annual to Mr. Carl Kennedy for his many years of service to the school and the community.

Cindi Lauper, impersonated by Beta Club member Helen McAdams, is the star hostess of the talent show. Helen adds a little touch of humor and excitement to the show as she acts as emcee.

Spring Events Bring Eagles Alive

The annual Beta Club talent show was held in the gym on May 7. The theme was "We Are The World." The money raised provided two scholarships to be awarded by the Beta Club.

The talent show, which consisted of 14 different acts, brought laughter and tears to the audience. The third place winners were Cheryl Hughes — ballet to "Endless Love" and Jerry Burchette — clogging. Second place was taken by Tammy Bumgarner who sang "Arms of Love," and accompanied herself on the piano. Kristi Pierce carried away first place with her dance to "Jungle Love." The talent show was not restricted only to students; some teachers decided to display their talents. Among the teachers were Mr. Myers who sang the Senior Class song "We've Only Just Begun," and Mr. Brown who sang selections of beach music. The Eaglettes did a routine to "1999" by Prince. The grand finale featured the Beta Club rendition of "We Are The World." The club was joined by other students who helped portray the 48 stars in "EDHS for Africa."

May Day, another club-sponsored event, was held on May 9 on the football field. The Monogram Club raised the money to help improve the athletic department. May Day consisted of such activities as sack races, a car and truck show, volleyball game, relay races, egg toss, and a three-legged race. A dunking booth sponsored by the Bus Drivers Club was a refreshing change for the teachers and a chance for revenge from the students. Various clubs sponsored food booths. The varsity cheerleaders sold cokes; J.V. cheerleaders, cotton candy; Library Club, hotdogs; and Jr.-Sr. Science Club, snowcones.

The annual staff welcomed spring in their own way. Shane Hicks won the "Pretty Legs" contest sponsored by the French Club. After the class competitions were over, the students moved to the baseball field for a Student/Faculty co-ed softball game. The students smeared the faculty 12-1.

On May 10 they presented "Beach Blast." The dance was held in the school cafeteria from 8:00 pm till 12:00 am. This was the first spring May Day dance. Preston Thompson from WKZL-VOT was the guest D.J.

The decorations for the dance consisted of beach balls, rafts, beach towels, sand, and sunglasses. Talk about beach fever!

On May 22, all rumors ended. The annuals had finally arrived. The 1984-85 yearbook staff presented the 24th volume of the Claw a "Classic" was dedicated to Mr. Carl Kennedy for his outstanding loyalty to the school for 23 years. The Senior section was dedicated to Timothy Darrell Rhodes who tragically died on Aug. 4, 1984 in a automobile accident. An annual was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Thayer in Timmy's memory along with a white rose. The senior class flower symbolized the love we all had for him. A moment of silence was also observed in memory of Tim on his birthday.

Kristi Pierce, performing to Prince's "Jungle Love," captivates the audience at the talent show. With all eyes on her, she walked away with first place in the competition.

Groups, faculty, and students are all encouraged to participate in the talent show. The jazz band takes this opportunity to display their talents.

“... High Hopes, Determination, And Skill”

“Strike three ... you’re out!” That phrase was uncommon to hear against the 1984-85 varsity baseball team during their 11-11 season with their new Eagle coach, Dan Tricarico. Along with the new coach, the team gained many more new advantages throughout the season. The baseball field was vastly improved through the erecting of lights, enlarging the field itself, and placing a fence around it. On the night of the dedication of the “new” field on May 7, the Eagles fired upon the Ledford Panthers with a surge of energy that both surprised and delighted the Eagle fans. One certain play highlighted the game, as the enthusiastic crowds roared with encouragement. Halfway through the game, Bobby Byerly smacked the first “over-the-fence” home run to be recorded on the new field. The crowds were ecstatic and with such adrenalin flowing, the Eagles went on to win the game, 10-6.

“Next year should really be an exciting year for us,” stated Coach Tricarico. “Although the four seniors were really important to the team for their leadership abilities, we only have four positions to fill next year.” The team attitude was reflected through rising senior, Craig Black. “We were discouraged at first, but with the encouragement from the coach, we ended up with a pretty good year.” Coach Tricarico also commented on winning 10 out of the last 12 games which showed their improvement and effort.

“Everyone contributed, and there were not really any captains of title, but I feel that, in a sense, the seniors were the captains, leading their team with high hopes, determination, and skill,” explained Tricarico. Although the team felt the loss of their senior members, their outlook for next year was one of optimism, excitement, and great expectations.

With a satisfied grin, Scott Leonard exhibits his catch at third base with a proud throw back to the pitcher.

Craig Black smacks a hard-thrown pitch. As a result, he gets behind the ball with a good strong swing, knocking it into the outfield.

While roughing a slide to third base, Rusty Pierce attempts to beat the ball only to be called out by the umpire.

As a southpaw, Darrick Embry proves he has what it takes to make a grand Eagle pitcher, as his body winds up in a smooth style.

With an expression of determination, Bobby Byerly stretches out to make a practice throw in preparation for the game against Denton on May 14.

Third row: Jim Plummer (Manager), Vann Goins (First Baseman), Vince Mounts (Pitcher), Rusty Pierce (Outfielder), Steven Barnes (Catcher), Dannie Gallimore (Outfielder), Greg Holste (Outfielder).

With a tremendous left-handed throw, Michael Cranford slings the ball to infield to stop a play in action.

Coach Cress stands at third base giving signals to the batter for the next play.

“There Is Potential In All Of You”

When time came for the first golf match, the six members eagerly anticipated victory. Chuck Tanner's first successful tee shot seemingly began that run of success.

Grueling temperatures and frequent thunderstorms made four hours of walking eighteen holes a real test of determination. The six young men, however, pushed themselves and in the end, this self-determination paid off. As the season wore on, each member improved and with practice in their home territory at the Colonial Country Club, was able to contribute more to each match.

As a new member, Chad Miller performed with impressive skill and Johnny Green and Carl Christiansen added a great deal to Tanner's advantageous scores.

Although the members of the golf team hoped for a more successful season, the outcome was still congratulated. Coach Bob Barham added to the optimistic attitudes with his often heard phrase, “There is potential in all of you.”

Junior Varsity Baseball had a splendid season with an outcome of 13-4 and one tie. Under a new coach, Coach Gary Cress, the members played with diligence and optimism. With high hopes and high goals, they believed not only in the skill of their coach, but also in their own skills.

Run, Throw, Jump

The 1984-85 track season started on March 1, with practice after school on the football field track. Both boys' and girls' track practiced together. The first meet was on March 6th.

Boys' track had strong athletes like Eric Gainey, Chad Elberson, and Coy Blair. There were twenty six boys on the team. The boys' team pulled together in a team effort and finished 6th in the conference. The sectionals were held a week after the conference and the boys sent Eric Gainey, Coy Blair, and Chad Elberson.

Girls' track finished in second or third every track meet under the guidance of Danny Ward. Sherri Wood served as captain for the successful team. The girls' strongest events were the 1600m relay and the 3200 run. Sherri Wood, Mary Ferguson, Amy Everhart, Wendy Swicegood, and Lesa Bonagura represented East in the sectional meet on April 22nd.

One More Try For The Eagles

Against the belief of many in the Central Carolina Conference, the Lady Eagles softball team had an extremely successful season. The '85 team finished conference play as co-champions and entered the state playoffs as a second-seeded team. They finished their season in the second round of play in the state play-offs against West Stanly.

The Eagles began the season as a rebuilding project. After coming off a state championship and losing five starting seniors, they had their work cut out for them. They set high goals and worked hard. The team had tryouts in late February and 17 out of 23 girls were chosen.

Practices were held after school every day for two hours and occasionally on Saturdays. Dedication and hard work were required from every member. Through the help of Head Coach Greg Fowler and the assistance of Coaches Bobby House and Mike Ragan, and scorekeeper Toby Varner; the team became the biggest surprise of the conference.

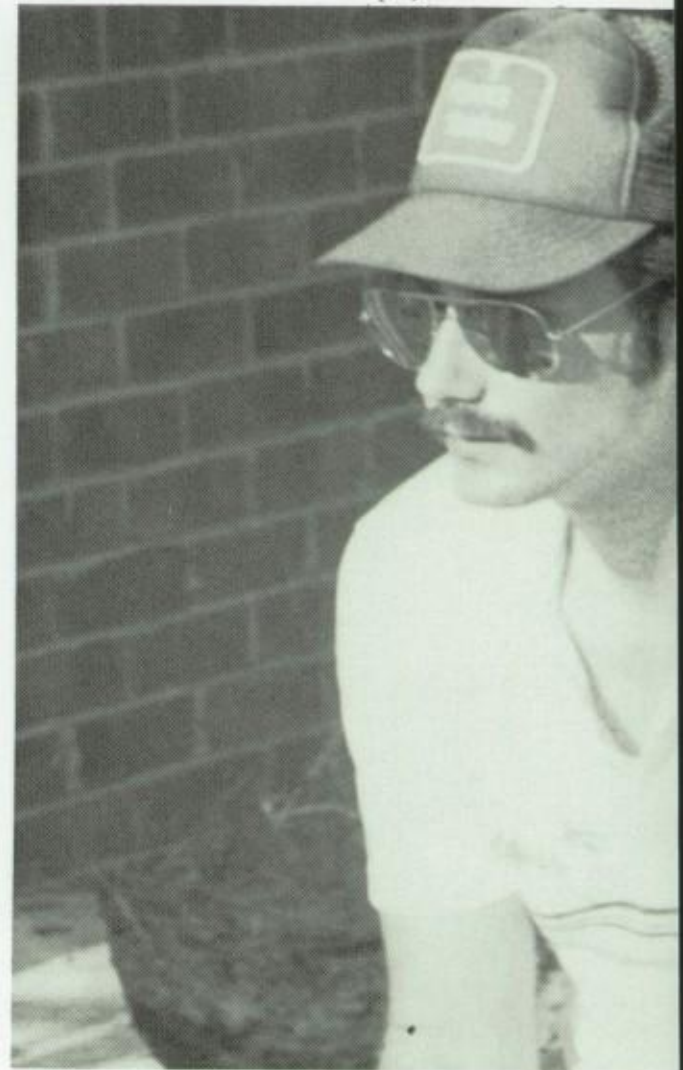

As a goal the Eagles set out to finish in the top two of the conference and obtain a state play-off bid. "The team was very, very successful in spirit of their inexperience and youth. The girls worked hard together as a team," Fowler explains. The determination and reconstructing of the team lead House to believe that "the girls have the ingredients for a successful program because of their youth."

The highlight of the season was on May 7 at East Davidson. Not only was this the first game under the lights at the new baseball field, but the Lady Eagles also captured a very memorable victory over the Ledford Panthers in a 7-6 win.

Finishing the season with an overall record of 15-7 and conference record of 11-3, the team conquered one of their biggest foes — the lack of confidence. At the outset of the season, the Eagles were believed to be a much weaker team and less of an opponent. However, the team pulled together and fought their way to the top again.

Alane Holste takes a break for water during the away Denton game. A friend of Coach House sits by and watches the Eagles take a 14-3 win from the Raiders.

Action at the plate often becomes a little crowded. In the home game against S.W. Randolph, the Eagles once again cross the plate with a crucial run.

As Ginger Jones rounds third base, Coach Fowler watches the ball to see if Ginger should go home. Once again this was a contributing run to the final score of a 10-0 win over Denton.

Amy Cannon, second baseman, gets a West Davidson baserunner out during the last conference game. The Eagles were unable to score enough to take a victory from West with a final score of 5-1.

15 Love

East Davidson had its first tennis team this year. Coach Danny Palmer instructed the athletes in hopes of being competitive with top tennis teams like North Davidson, Thomasville, and Lexington. The tennis team practiced one hour after school at the Optimist Park and had tennis matches on Thursdays and Saturdays. Coach Palmer said, "Our team is young and we have a lot of work ahead of us, but we are improving." Tony Fore and Sean Varner were big assets to the team; as they shared their leadership abilities, as well as skills, to the other team members. The tennis team finished second in the Davidson County Conference.

Self-discipline is essential in sports. At the May 27th Spring Athletic Banquet, Angie Dancy receives the sportsmanship award for softball.

It takes a well-rounded student to achieve in academics and perform well in athletics. Athletes must deal with pain, defeat, success, and triumph. This takes dedication and perseverance. Annually, the coaching staff rewards the individuals who exemplify the true athlete.

Listed below are those athletes who performed as true Eagles for the 1984-85 athletic season:

Closing Moments

Practices, ceremonies, and picnics helped to bring many memories and years to a close for 159 students at East Davidson. Preparations, and celebrations started May 24 and came to a final close at graduation exercises on May 31.

Action for the seniors began with practice for the baccalaureate sermon. This practice began at 8:15 on May 24. During this practice the seniors were asked to run through the ceremony and sermon in order to get an idea of the program. Practice lasted until 10:00, then the students returned to class.

Baccalaureate sermon was held in the gym on Sunday, May 26, at 8:00 p.m. Ross DeMerchant, youth pastor at Mt. Zion Church, lead the service. In his sermon he addressed the seniors and gave them a challenge to life for God and to His will.

Tuesday, May 28, was the senior picnic. Beginning at 12:00 noon, the seniors were able to enjoy themselves without the worry of school work or underclassmen. Among the delights enjoyed by the seniors were watermelon, chicken, pizza, Pepsi, and ham. When 159 students get together in one place, there has to be fun and excitement of all kinds. One of the common treats was playing Frisbee. Numerous frisbees were seen flying through the air above the football stadium where the picnic was held. Another way of relaxing enjoyed by the seniors was a walk around the track with friends or with that someone special. At the conclusion of the picnic at 1:00, the seniors were given a pleasant surprise — they were dismissed to go home for the day.

May 27, 28, and 29 were crucial days for many candidates for graduation. These were the days of senior exams. Seniors relied on the final grades of their exams to determine their status for graduation.

On Wednesday, May 29, the annual Awards Day for seniors was held in the gym at 2:00 p.m. During the ceremony many outstanding students were awarded scholarships and awards which showed their hard work over the last 12 years of school. Among the major scholarship winners were Kristi Pierce, winner of the Presidential Scholarship at High Point College, Tina Byerly and Monroe Tuttle, winners of the T. Austin Finch Scholarship, and Randy Norris, the Army-National Guard Scholar/Athlete Award. Many other awards were given. In all, 34 scholarships were awarded and 34 other awards were presented.

Each year the East faculty votes on three major awards — Best All Around, Most Spirited and Service. They vote for the senior that they feel best possesses these qualities. Among the winners for 1985 were Best All Around — Stephanie Bell and Coy Blair, Most Spirited — Dawn Hill and Andy Plummer, and the Service Award — Karen Shaw and Kenneth Glascoe. The top athletic awards — the Eagle Awards — were presented to Sherri Woods and Vince Mounts.

Thursday, May 30, was declared Senior Lay-out Day. The halls at East were lacking a certain zest and excitement without the added students. Many seniors went to Water Country, USA; while others just spent their day shopping. The extra day came in handy for those preparing for their trip to the beach — packing, resting, or even laying out in the sun. It was their last chance to take a deep breathe before their final day — May 31 — graduation.

The big day for the seniors was a day of much activity. Practice for the night's graduation exercises began at 8:00 a.m. The seniors were placed in their appropriate seats. For two and half hours the anxious seniors sat watched, and listened. Each walked across the stage for a practice run only to realize that within a few hours that walk would be the beginning of their "new" lives. At the completion of the practice, pictures were taken and the seniors were dismissed.

The moment everyone had waited on for 12 years finally arrived. At 7:00 p.m. the gym began to fill with proud parents and friends. The magic hour of 8:00 p.m. brought the graduation procession filing into the gym. The night was filled with many smiles, fears, and tears. The band opened the ceremony. The chorus sang the senior class song "We've Only Just Begun" and closed the ceremony with a moving "Like An Eagle." To add to the ceremony. A. Ray Murphy, Jr. addressed the graduates and challenged them to have a successful life and to become involved in their community and country.

Many memories were made this week, while many were just added on to the 12 years of memories already treasured. These closing moments were few, but the memories were and always will be many to be remembered.
